Kennedy Swam To Cutter

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Boatswain Mate 1.C. Sam E. Harris, 26, described today hauling Sen. Robert F. Kennedy aboard a small Coast Guard cutter in 20-foot seas and 40-mile-an-hour winds off the Massachusetts coast.

Harris had received word at the Castle Hill Coast Guard station that the New York Democratic senator's daughter, Kathleen, 14, was injured—perhaps critically—when her horse fell on her Sunday during a Cape Cod horse show.

The Coast Guard said all efforts to reach Kennedy, seven of his children and friends aboard a yacht, Neris, in Rhode Island Sound failed because the yacht radio had been turned off.

Harris said he and his crew aboard a 30-foot craft finally reached them several miles off shore but the waves were so high he was unable to pull along side.

Kennedy, 39, then decided he would attempt to swim to the cutter despite the waves, occasionally reaching heights of 30 feet. That he was forced to dive from the yacht and make the swim was learned Wednesday night by the Washington Post, and confirmed today by Harris.

He said Kennedy took off his shirt, put on an orange floater vest, and swam for 32 seconds toward the cutter, which was then able to close in on him and pull him aboard.

Wants Bite Put On Dog Owners

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Mailman Eddie Rael wants the City Commission to put the bite on dog owners so their pets will stop putting the bite on letter carriers.

Rael was making his rounds last June when a large dog rushed out of a house and bit him on the leg. Rael had to stay off his feet for eight days.

Rael told the Albuquerque branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers there ought to be a law. He found out there is, but city figures show it's not enforced too closely.

Last year, Rael also discovered, 40 mailmen were bitten in this city of 310,000 population — about double the number from the previous year.

Taylor Given New Job

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson has named Maxwell D. Taylor a special consultant and said he will have "a continuing role in support of the people and government" of South Viet Nam.

This role was not spelled out as the President-Taylor beside him- made his announcement Wednesday night. Nor did Johnson amplify other special assignments he said he will give the former U. S. ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Johnson said Taylor, a former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will be charged with reviewing all government programs aimed at countering Communist advances abroad. And, he said, Taylor will operate when in Washington from the executive office building, across the street from the White House.

Taylor said he thinks Johnson has in mind "a kind of task force assignment."

Henry Cabot Lodge, who succeeded Taylor in Saigon, also served as a special presidential consultant.

NEW MADRID -- Six persons faced felony charges in magistrate court this week with Judge Erie Wright of Portageville presiding.

Johnie Lindley, DeLois Johnson, Wilbur Dale Johnson, and Alice Cummings, were each charged with leaving the scene of an accident. All but Miss Cummings had preliminary hearings in Judge Wright's Court. Lindley was held for the circuit court on $2500 bond. Miss Johnson and Wilbur Dale Johnson were ordered to post $500 bonds while awaiting circuit court action. All three posted bond. Alice Cummings waived her preliminary hearing and was held for the higher court on $500 bond. She was unable to post bond and was committed to the county jail.

Robert Cleveland Swoner was held for circuit court with bond set at $500 after waiving his preliminary hearing on a charge

Threat To Florida Easing

MIMAI, Fla. AP -- Hurrican Betsy's winds built up to dangerous 125-mile-an-hour fury today but a gradual northward swing in its forward movement lessened the threat to heavily populated south Florida.

"We're not quite ready yet to take south Florida off the hook," said Gordon Dunn, chief storm forecaster in the Miami Weather Bureau, "but the threat certainly has decreased. The chance that it will affect this area is becoming rather remote."

But he cautioned that south Florida interests should continue to keep in touch with the hurricane advisories for another 24 hours.

Betsy was growing stronger by the hour as it whirled across the Atlantic.

The multi-million-dollar U.S. missile tracking station at Grand Turk Island, on the southern tip of the 750-mile Bahama chain, apparently was spared Betsy's punch.

"Right now, Betsy's a threat to the entire Eastern coast of the United States," said forecaster Raymond Kraft of the Miami Weather Bureau. "But it'll take days before it'll do anything so we can know who to warn."

A new pressure system is pushing across the U.S. midsection and may stall Betsy again in 48 hours or so, Kraft said.

Residents of the thinly populated southeastern Bahamas were warned to prepare for high swells and pounding surf as Betsy whirled about 100 miles north of the Caicos Islands today.

Small Cut In Aid Bill

WASHINGTON AP -- A $3,285,000,000 foreign aid appropriation bill emerged today from the House Appropriations Commitee with the smallest cut in the aid program's 18-year history.

The $75 million trimmed by the committee from $3.36-billion program authorized by Congress only last week compared with the previous low of $198 million cut from the 1952 program. Last week's bill fixed the limit of new financing for the present fiscal year at a level of about $96 million below what President Johnson requested.

In addition to financing the foreign aid program, the money bill also would provide funds for several other activities, including the Peace Corps, boosting its over-all total of $4,001,453,000.

CARUTHERSVILLE -- James A. Collins, age 36, will appear in magistrate court tomorrow morning to face a charge of murder by rape.

He is charged in the death of Sue Melton, 23, Saturday morning. Her body was taken to Memphis for an autopsy.

Pemiscot County Prosecuting Attorney Sharon Pate said that he expects to get the autopsy report Friday or Saturday.

Steel Talks Progress Is Reported

WASHINGTON AP -- Slight progress was reported today in emergency White House steel negotiations, with President Johnson pushing the talks toward a critical phase.

A source in the negotiations said the steel industry had raised its money offer "a little," but that AFL-CIO United Steelworers Union refused to budge from its last demand.

The last publicly reported industry offer was a 40.6 cent hourly increase in wages and fringe benefits over three years. The last union demand was reportedly 49.8 cents.

Johnson has said both sides must take concessions to reach a settlement.

King Size Ranch Would Make Excellent Gift

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — This may be the perfect gift for that fellow who has everything: A Nevada ranch the size of Luxembourg.

The ranch of slain millionaire William A. Bartholomae, covering 900 square miles, is up for sale.

Included are cattle and coyotes, green irrigated valleys and desert mountains, 54 horses and a host of buildings. If you like space, it's roughly 66 miles from front door to back gate.

The Bartholomae ranch is a combine of 16 separate spreads scattered over parts of three counties in east central Nevada. Heart of the empire is the Fish Creek Ranch about 20 miles south of Eureka.

There are 20 buildings at the Fish Creek Ranch including a cottage, office, kitchen-recreation hall, bunk house, saddle and tack room and barns. Most of the other ranch units have livable homes, too. One suitable for a hunting lodge is on the Indian Creek Ranch 20 miles southwest of Fish Creek.

The Bartholomae properties cover 25 townships, but only 9,277 acres are deeded land. As with most large western ranches, the rest is leased from the federal government.

The price tag for all this? That's indefinite until sealed bids are opened in private sale Tuesday in Carson City.

But the outfit has been appraised at $1,876,313.90, including land and leases, grazing rights, the horses, 2,220 head of Hereford cattle and $9,535 worth of vehicles.

Clears Labor Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sharply controversial bill to repeal Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley law has cleared the Senate Labor Committee by a bigger margin than its sponsors expected.

The panel approved the measure 12-3 Wednesday but agreed to withhold it from the Senate until late next week so its foes could write their views on it.

The White House said after the vote that President Johnson expects final congressional action before adjournament. The House passed the bill 221-203 in July.

Senate sponsors say they have the votes to pass the bill but expect a two-week floor battle. The big fight will be over amendments to restrict union activities.

Section 14B allows states to ban labor contracts that compel workers to join a union. Nineteen states have enacted such bans.

Lynn is president of the Republic States Life Insurance Company in Sikeston. He is president of the board of trustees of the Crowley's Ridge college in Paragould, Ark.

Paroled Youth Held For Theft

Terry Wayne Travis, route four, was charged this morning by Stoddard county authorities with car theft.

Travis, 19, is charged with stealing a 1959 Ford owned by George Smith, route one, last night.

Smith was enroute to Morehouse to work in another car this morning at 6:30 a.m. when he saw Travis in his automobile. He stopped the car and jerked Travis out. Travis escaped on foot in Morehouse.

The highway patrol went to the home of a brother of Travis near Morehouse and arrested him. He was taken to the Stoddard county jail in Bloomfield.

Young Travis is out on parole from the Algoa reform school in Jefferson City. He was serving two years for car theft. He has been on parole one month.

His parents live at Canalou.

Three Bills Go In Drive To Adjourn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressional leaders have decided to jettison minimum wage, congressional redistricting and unemployment compensation legislation in their drive for a late September adjournment.

This decision, reflected in Senate Democratic Policy Committee action, apparently has at least the tacit approval of President Johnson. The three major measures to be pigeonholed will remain alive for action in 1966.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said in an interview the party policy committee has called for Senate action on a half dozen major measures before the current session ends. These include the $4.7-billion higher education aid bill on which Senate debate begins today.

Other measures the committee wants pushed to a vote, Mansfield said, include bills to repeal state union shop bans, revise the farm subsidy system, abolish the national origin quotas on immigration, step up vocational rehabilitation and beautify highways. Included also are the regular money bills, with the always controversial foreign aid bill among them.

A proposed pay increase for federal civilian employes was not on the priority list.

Astronauts Take Break

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 5 astronauts fly home to Houston, Tex., today for a joyous, but brief, reunion with their families.

L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr. are scheduled to leave by plane at 1 p.m. (EST) for the three-hour flight to Ellington Air Force Base, near Houston.

Their departure will end four days of intensive debriefings here on their record eight-day orbital journey.

Technical and medical experts have wrung everything possible out of the astronauts in general terms. At the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, other specialists will keep them in seclusion another week, probing various aspects of the mission in deeper detail.

But before being spirited away, the astronauts were to be reunited with their wives and children.

$4,020 City Tax Take

Merchants paid $2,154.41, the largest portion; liquor taxes were $320, and dog taxes $56 for a total of $2,530.41 for merchants and manufacturers.

Personal back tax collections were $806, real estate back tax collections totaled $392.32; $1,089.69 in miscellaneous collections were made.

Bribery Incident Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee today called on the State Department and Central Intelligence Agency to explain why a formal denial of a $3-million bribery incident that took place in Singapore in 1960 backfired to the embarrassment of the U.S. government.

Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on the Far East, said closed hearings will be held after the Labor Day recess to obtain an explanation from responsible officials on bribery allegations brought by Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew.

Lee threatened to name an American presidential intermediary of high rank who he said offered him the bribe in 1960 if he would not reveal the arrest of an American CIA agent trapped trying to buy information from Singapore secret agents.

State Department officials were taken aback Tuesday when Lee released a letter from Secretary of State Dean Rusk which apologized for improper activities by American agents and promised disciplinary action.

Zablocki said it was "most unfortunate" that the State Department had issued a formal denial of the bribery charge on Tuesday and then had itself reversed on Wednesday.

"It is not too difficult to look back to what action Prime Minister Lee was talking about," Zablocki said. He refused to elaborate.

State Department officials insisted that only Rusk and the Central Intelligence Agency knew of the letter to Lee. Zablocki indicated that Congress had been filled in on the incident when it occurred toward the close of the Eisenhower administration.

Car Stalls, 2 Hurt In Crash

A stalled car in the middle of route UU, three miles southeast of Charleston at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday caused a crash that injured two persons, the state highway patrol reported.

The 1963 Ford, owned by Joe Galemore, Charleston, was struck by a 1964 Pontiac, driven by John Haley, 44, Anniston. Galemore had tried to flag traffic.

Haley was cut on the head, and a passenger in his car, Sammy Babb, 17, Charleston, had a shoulder injury. Both were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Other Wednesday mishaps reported by the patrol:

Eva Cross, 37, East Prairie, a passenger in a GMC truck driven by James W. Cross, 47, East Prairie, was cut on her head in a two-truck collision. The accident occurred at 3:40 p.m. on route 102, three miles east of East Prairie.

Cross was making a left turn, driven by Barry R. Hill, 22, Matthews, attempted to pass him.

No one was injured in a two-car crash at 3:10 p.m., five miles south of Sikeston on highway 61, when a 1957 Dodge driven by Rex Hutton, 45, New Madrid, slowed behind a school bus. The car was struck in the rear by a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Detta Johnston, 20, East Prairie, who was arrested for careless and imprudent driving, the state patrol reported.

A 1964 Chevrolet driven east by Grover L. Chapman, 32, Wyatt, was making a left turn when it was struck by a 1962 Chevrolet, driven by Walter Long, 67, Bardwell, Ky. None was hurt in the collision at 3:25 p.m. five miles east of Charleston on highway 60.

Suspected Viet Cong Area Attacked

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP Air Force B52 bombers attacked a suspected Viet Cong area today, a U. S. military spokesman said, with a raid that rattled windows in downtown Saigon, 20 miles from the target.

The area hit was north-northwest of Saigon in the Ho Bo woods in Dinh Duong Province, the spokesman said.

Dr. Albert Schweitzer, 90, Lies Gravely Ill

LIBREVILLE, Gabon (AP)— Dr. Albert Schweitzer, 90, lies gravely ill today in his jungle hospital, in which he has treated thousands of Africans.

The old doctor whose name is legend throughout the world, was stricken by fatigue Sunday and has not left his bed since.

Reports reaching the capital from the 100-mile distant jungle hospital were sketchy. Close associates refused to say anything or speculate on Dr. Schweitzer's chances of recovery.

"He is ill, very ill. We are all praying," a member of Dr. Schweizer's staff told an acquaintance over the telephone linking the island of Lambarene with the capital.

The hospital itself, located across the muddy Ogooue River from Lambarene Island, has no telephone. Dr. Schweitzer refused to install one.

Reports of his illness trickled from the hospital to Lambarene by staff members traveling across the river in dugout canoes.

But he sat every day at his battered desk in the hut housing the hospital's central pharmacy, where drugs were given out to ailing Africans.

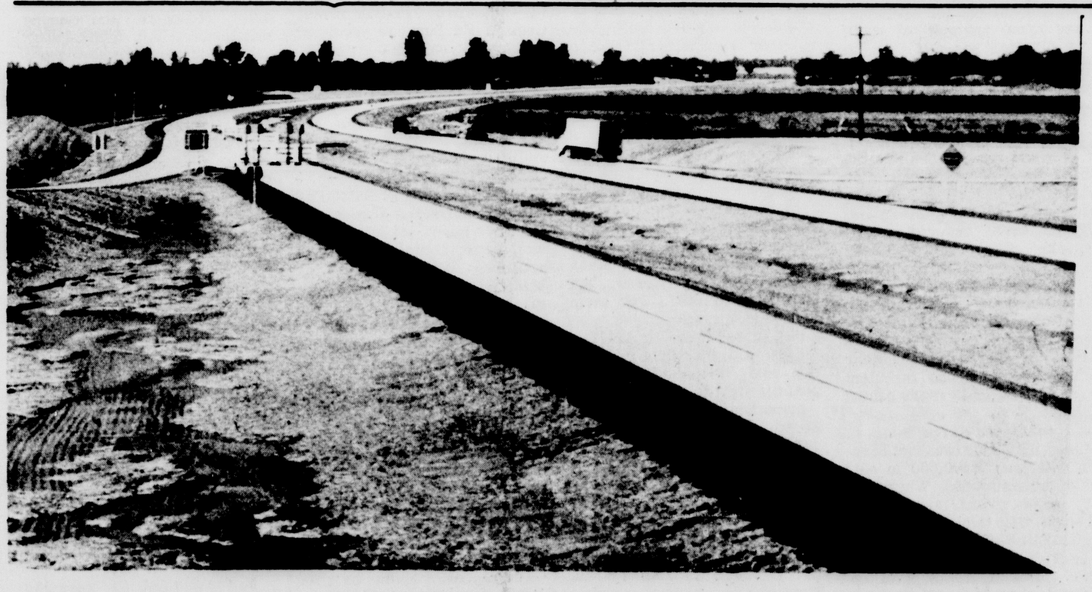

"I feel admirably well," he told this reporter last Jan. 14 on his 90th birthday.

According to reports avilable here, Dr. Schweitzer had kept up his daily routine, dictating answers to numerous letters, studying plans for new construction at the hospital and receiving visitors.

A report said the doctor had lost consciousness Wednesday, but recovered slightly toward evening.

In the capital, Africans were philosophical about the man who had devoted his life to Africa and became the center of controversy.

"He is old, very old," was a comment often heard here.

INTERSTATE 55 spreads further south. The new four-lane concrete road has been opened from Sikeston to Highway 80, one and one-half miles east of Matthews Junction. This is an eight-mile stretch. This picture was taken from the highway 80 overpass looking north.

THE HIGHWAY 61 OVERPASS over Interstate 55, under construction, has been opened four miles north of New Madrid. It eliminates the first of two detours between Sikeston and New Madrid on highway 61. A portion of the grading of I-55 south of the overpass is in the center. At the extreme right is a portion of the old paved detour, which formerly was used.

OH, NO--NOT YOU

For many the Labor Day week end will begin tomorrow. For most it will conclude late Monday.

But according to an estimate by one of the national insurance companies it will be life, not just a playful holiday, that ends for at least 800 Americans.

Not you, of course. It couldn't happen to you. You drive carefully, never get in a hurry, always keep a close eye on the other driver, observe all the laws, abide by the rules of safety and courtesy, keep wide awake, never have a drink before driving, and never become distracted by your passengers. Furthermore, you always say a prayer, cross your fingers and check to see if the rabbit foot is in your pocket before you get in your auto.

And if that isn't enough, if everything goes wrong and some fool driver in another car causes your death, you're at least well-insured so that your wife and children will be well taken care of -- if they aren't killed, too.

We know you get tired of having death and injury statistics quoted to you at the onset of these long holiday weekends. Why spoil your fun worrying?

Well, assume then that the 365,000 persons who will be injured in auto accidents between midnight tonight and midnight Monday couldn't possibly include you or your family. Assume that you won't be among the 2,500 who will be permanently disabled in grinding smash-ups and tire-screeching collisions. And certainly you won't be one of the 800 or so who are killed.

And then don't get into an automobile once during that 72-hour period and maybe you'll be right.

The hand that lifts the cup that cheers, should not be used to shift the gears.

Most people if they are honest will tell you that circumstances played an important role in their careers.

It is fine to have ambition and wonderful to see it fulfilled but most people learn how to roll with the punches and adjust to conditions and to accept the consequences.

Gallatin is a small northwest Missouri town which is off the beaten path as far as major highway travel is concerned. But the fellow who never heard of Gallatin doesn't like to eat.

Mrs. McDonald's Tearoom has put Gallatin on the map. The inspired food of Virginia McDonald, the proprietor, is beautiful to the eye and even more pleasing to the taste buds.

Yet Mrs. McDonald did not long aspire to this kind of fame.

She started the tearoom almost a third of a century ago when a lengthy illness left her and her husband, Charles, with debts of more than $8,000. She decided to meet the financial crisis by opening a restaurant.

A banker told her it couldn't be done. Everything was against it. Gallatin was isolated and too far from any metropolitan center.

Her husband built the tearoom structure, crude at first. The start was modest.

Mrs. McDonald's cooking skill fulfilled a promise made by her mother.

"My mother was an aristocrat in the south and never knew how to cook or cared until after the Civil War," Mrs. McDonald recalls. "She vowed then that all of her daughters would know their way around a kitchen."

Just how well she succeeded is evidenced by Mrs. McDonald's invitation by the late Duncan Hines to be his guest when he honored the 10 top restaurant people in the nation.

Mrs. McDonald's ability as a cook was initially advertised by traveling salesman talk, later by Hines and others who spread across the nation word about good places to eat, including former Gov. Arthur Hyde.

Once when he visited Virginia, Hyde commented that Mrs. McDonald's black raspberry ice, a tearoom speciality, "should be reverently held in the hands and inhaled as you would a fragrant rose."

The success of Mrs. McDonald's Tearoom is an amazing one in the best American tradition. Everything was against her. She had no long-held ambition to succeed in business. Her career was born of necessity during an unexpected emergency.

People liked her food well enough to drive off main traveled routes to stop and eat in her tearoom. Residents of Kansas City and St. Joseph drove to her. She didn't have to bring her restaurant to them.

Unquestionably she filled a need. Smart merchants know that they can't sell rubbers and raincoats unless it is raining or galoshes unless there is snow. People suddenly get hungry at the mere mention of the word "Gallatin." Those who have eaten at the tearoom will instinctively drive toward it if they come within 50 miles.

By her skill Mrs. McDonald shaped her own destiny. She did it without headstart, Medicare or the anti-poverty program.

We hope that this security conscious generation, nurtured on federal aid, will please take note.

A. L. Waller says "Is it any wonder that we have inflation --- the silly things people spend their money on these days."

There has been no announcement in modern times more deserving of Sikeston civic solidarity than that this city has the opportunity to obtain commercial aviation service.

The community should get solidly behind the efforts of Robert Matthews, former president of the Sikeston Industrial Development Corporation, and others, to make this dream come true.

In its potential this gives the community the chance to join the air age and may be of greater ultimate significance than Sikeston's location on two interstate highways.

If Sikeston can furnish sufficient patronage to keep any commercial air service in operation it should be able to do so as the mid-point on a St. Louis to Memphis route.

Success barometers may be found in the heavy travel on bus schedules now between these two cities, frequency of the service, passenger car travel between the cities as well as air travel by Sikeston area residents to St. Louis and Memphis from Cape Girardeau and Paducah. These factors all point to the need for the service.

Airport improvements are needed as well as five passengers per flight to assure continued service.

These requirements and all other reasonable ones should be met by an eager citizenry determined to get and keep Ozark Airlines flying in and out of Sikeston.

This city is on the threshold of a new dimension in its steady, continued growth and progress. Let's get our shoulders to the wing and join the air age.

MR. JOHNSON'S LABOR MESSAGE

Only 19 states, none of them highly industrialized, have adopted so-call "right to work" laws. One of them is Mr. Johnson's own state of Texas. Six other states that adopted laws subsequently repealed them. Of the six, only one, Indiana, is a highly industrialized state. Its law, passed in 1957, was repealed last January.

The experience of the states, it seems to us, is an argument for settling the issue on a state basis.

ABOUT AVERAGE

An inquisitive visitor in a small village began questioning a native. He wanted to know everything about the community, its elevation, about sea level, politics, religious tendencies, bank clearances, and so on. Finally, he asked, "What is the death rate in this town?" To which the somewhat bored native replied: "About one to a person."

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

Some like to take the wheel in our journey through life, while others prefer to go along as passengers.

It seems to me that the role of the passenger is an important one and has its advantages.

The function of the passenger is to serve as the audience for the actors of this world.

The actors are the people who drive cars, sail boats, buy houses in the country. They surround themselves with expensive toys, and like any child with a new toy they are never quite happy alone.

They must show their toys off to somebody. That is where the passenger comes in. His job is to praise the new boys and the skill with which their owner plays with them.

That is his whole job, and he must do nothing more if he is a conscientious passenger. Let me illustrate.

Recently I accepted an invitation to go for a cruise with a man who had just bought an expensive sailboat. There were just the two of us aboard.

During those four days I never asked to steer the boat or offered to reef or unreef a sail or perform a helpful chore of any kind.

At the end of our cruise my host said to me with that faint note of hostility that creeps ultimately into every host's voice: "You know, you're really just an eternal passenger. You've made a career of being helpless. You don't know how to do anything, and what is more you don't even want to learn how to do anything."

His ingratitude rather annoyed me. So I endeavored to set him straight.

"You are implying that there is no difference between a passenger and a barnacle," I told him. "But there is. A barnacle is merely an inactive hitchhiker.

"But as a passenger I've been quite useful to you. For four days I've praised your boat's performance, admired your skill at the tiller, listened to your woes, agreed that you were a better man than your enemies, and refrained from giving you advice of any kind.

"Believe me, I have been of far more service to you than if I had merely pitched in and helped you fight winds and waves. You can rent somebody to do those things for you. What I have done for you is beyond price."

Well, after thinking it over, my host admitted there was some merit in what I had said. Anyway, he rowed me ashore, bought me a fast beer and said I would have to take a cruise with him again sometime—maybe next year, maybe the year after.

My son, Jeff, who is almost 7 , has a bad habit of swearing --usually at the very worst time. I tried every known method of curing him, but with no success. He'd always wanted a rabbit, so I decided to make a deal. I told him I would buy him one if he promised to cut out all his swearing. The bargain was made and he got his rabbit.

But it was too good to be true. We had some relatives over at the house last Sunday, and my elderly aunt said to Jeff: "I hear you have a rabbit, dear, Wouldn't you like to show it to us?"

"I sure would," said Jeff, and he rushed out to the garden to get his pet. Just as he brought it into the living room, the rabbit began to give birth to an enormous litter of baby rabbits. Jeff watched in amazement for a moment, then dropped the mother rabbit to the floor and screamed: "Holy smoke, the damn thing is falling apart!"

Communists Easily Find $100,000 For Summer Project Across U. S.

New York -- Nothing on the outside of the shabby, soot-darkened gray building -- or in its dingy, barren interior -- at 23 W. 26 St. insinuates that it had a paymaster who can quite easily put his hands on tens of thousands of dollars in cold cash.

But it does have a paymaster. This is the national headquarters of the Communist party U. S. A., and in the past 10 weeks he has been providing more than $7,500 in cash weekly to a series of youthful cadres in 11 major cities.

They total some 80 young people. Their assignment -- after two weeks of rigid, secret training -- has been to disperse, set up special employment clubs and operate under a slogan of "One man, One job."

Now in its final summertime stage, it was a prize project for a party still sensitive over the scolding by Moscow mentors who upbraided the American Communists for aging too fast and developing their youth cadres too slowly.

Like all dialectic gymnastics, this project had two objectives --major and minor. First, money was made available so the American Communist party could revitalize its operations by recruiting and training new youthful leaders. Second: To set up bases from which to infiltrate school systems, municipal social services, big industrial plants and defense factories--inside all of which the party could begin ultrasonic "agi-prop" work. This stands for agitation propaganda--meaning an attempt to develop the mind set of millions of workers in the hope that disruptive demonstrations could be launched and slow-downs encouraged in the tense "war" months to come.

Orders for the 1965 Communist Party project came down early this year. Swiftly between 75 and 80 young men and women --two of them from Puerto Rico --were recruited, processed and screened to make certain that disruptive Mao-ists did not infiltrate.

Then they were flown from the island, from the West coast and from the southern and mid-west cities to points near New Jersey. Then, by car and bus to Camp Midvale, New Jersey. There they were isolated for two weeks while they got the line from Mikhail Suslov, member of the Soviet Praesidium--but not in person, of course.

In person, there was Hyman Lumer, one of fifty men and women charged by the Subversive Activities Control Board with being dominated by Moscow. After the fortnight, Lumer, who is the Communists' national education director, told a friend that the assembly of these young people from all over the country had created a feeling of strength and power and greater respect for the Communist party.

The mere fact, explained Lumer, that such a group of promising students had been brought together under one roof for two weeks last June "refutes" those who are prone to consider the Communist party in the U. S. as an aging group with little or no future.

After the training session the youths were dispersed to the 11 cities the Communists consider most strategically located for propaganda and infiltration action.

The first cadres sped to Detroit and Chicago. Then to Philadelphia and Richmond, Va. Some stayed in New York. Others flew to St. Louis, Portland, Ore. Others drove to Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Boston.

There they set up actual club houses under full time hosts and hostesses or rented small apartments.

Where they could find a store front or cellar club room, they provided coffee, doughnuts, sandwiches, female companionship with or without chaperones, and free dances.

But club house or not, they did well by their pre-summer Communist instructors who had included Gus Hall, an old hand at organizing in the steel areas. They sought out job openings. They found unemployed youth and directed some of them to the shops. They linked their slogan of "One Man, One Job" to "Jobs, Peace and Equality."

Now the cadres are winding up their summertime project. But they are leaving behind the framework of an organization among the industrial youth--especially in Mid-west cities.

From their summer school training at the New Jersey camp, they carried to the 11 cities fresh ideas and organization techniques to revive the local Communist units in old, established areas. The youngsters "sparked up" the older party people whose turbulent days are 30 to 40 years behind them.

All this took large sums of money. But this was not lacking. At least $100,000 in cold cash was supplied. Where did it come from? Some folks thought that Moscow gold had gone out of style.

Is it unreasonable to ask that the Communists explain the source of their funds? The rest of the citizenry has to report. Or are we second-class citizens unequal with the Communists under the law?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Swedish intelligence has intercepted a secret Soviet plan, as daring as it is ominous, to bring military pressure on the Scandinavian countries to sign over railroad rights across Finland; Sweden and Norway all the way to the Atlantic.

The Russians want a Concession to use the Great Northern Railway that runs through Lap Country from Vartsila on the Soviet - Finnish border to the seaport of Narvik on the Norwegian Coast. This would give the Russians an ice-free outlet to the Atlantic.

The Swedes learned about the plan from a series of coded communications that they picked up from Soviet military intelligence. They broke the code, translated the messages, and tipped off the United States what they had uncovered.

Whether the bold scheme is merely a contingency plan, to be used in case of increased East-West tension, isn't clear. It could also be a clever hoax, deliberately planted on the Swedes in order to keep them off balance.

There has been disturbing evidence, however, of a Soviet build - up opposite the Scandinavian countries.

WHEN DO WE GO HOME?

In the sweltering summer the biggest issue on Capitol Hill becomes the adjournment date. On this the two leaders of Congress disagree.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, yearning to get back to his native Montana, is driving to close down Congress by Labor Day.

Speaker John McCormack, on the other hand, insists that it will be impossible to finish the legislative workload until late September or even early October.

Mansfield at one time told House leaders huffily that he intended to adjourn the Senate on Labor Day whether the House goes out of session or not. House leaders retorted that they will stay in session until their work is done, and let the Senate go home.

From the White House, President Johnson is applying all the pressure he can bring to bear upon the leaders to get several key bills out of the way before they go home. He called in Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen the other day to plead with them to pass his priority bills.

He wants them to take up federal aid for higher education next, then the bill to repeal the right-to-work laws.

Mansfield warned that the Senate could never adjourn on schedule if the right-to-work repeal has to be passed. He pointed out that the opponents are ready to talk the bill to death.

The President said he had made a commitment to labor to push the bill, and asked Mansfield to help him keep the commitment.

Dirksen, however, made it clear that the President could expect no cooperation from the Republicans on ending the right-to-work law.

"I am not only going to fight this," he told the President, "I am going to lead the fight."

It remains to be seen whether Congress will be able to get out of town on schedule. Meanwhile it is growing as hot inside the Capitol building as on the outside.

UNWIELDLY POST OFFICE

Larry O'Brien, the last of the Irish Mafia to leave the White House, was appointed Postmaster General for two reasons; First he is an astute politician with a good knowledge of Capitol Hill and the ability to make wise decisions.

Second, O'Brien was the most loyal to LBJ of the men inherited from the Kennedy entourage. Some of the Kennedy staff began dropping like flies immediately after the assassination. Arthur Schlesinger was the first to go; then Ted Sorenson, Pierre Salinger, Ken O'Donnell and so on. The new President was genuinely anxious to have them stay, but one by one they departed -- with the exception of O'Brien and McGeorge Bundy, the latter being the efficient liaison expert between the White House and the State and Defense Departments.

The President has confidence in and feels gratitude toward both, and the time will doubtless come when Bundy also will get his reward.

If O'Brien is smart -- and he usually is -- he will recognize that what the Post Office needs is another Bob McNamara -- a high level efficiency executive who will shake up the Post Office Department in the same way McNamara has shaken the deadwood out of Defense.

With the terrific population increase of the United States and the failure of the Post Office to automate, ex-Postmaster General Ed Day has predicted that by the year 2000 every other person in the United States will be kept busy handling the mail. Only successful step toward postal reform was the new automatic Post Offices installed by Assistant Postmaster General Tyler Abell.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

Water shortages across the country have stimulated new interest in cloud seeding, or artificial nucleation as the scientists call it, as a means of raising the river levels and filling the reservoirs. Rain is induced by playing plumes of silver iodide smoke on the billows of rain clouds. Such seeding has increased rainfall as much as 75 per cent in some localities. Others claim that it takes rain away from their localities . . . The big auto manufacturers, who have fought against every attempt to establish safety standards, are now opposing another safety suggestion. Experts have urged that dashboard knobs be given different shapes to identify their function and be located in the same places on all cars. This would permit a driver to get behind the wheel of any car and immediately recognize each knob's function by its placement and appearance. But the manufacturers prefer to design the knobs for style rather than safety . . . As one means of beautifying America, President Johnson is considering special tax incentives for electric and telephone companies which will agree to lay their lines underground. This would cost the companies more than stringing lines from unsightly poles, but a tax break could make it worth their while. . . One of the unsung heroes of Congress this year has been Rep. John Blatnik, D-Minn., who steered the glamorless but important Public Works and Economic Development Act through the House.

THE STEEL TALKS

The most important fact which Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Under Secretary of Commerce Leroy Collins reported to the White House from their steel talks in Pittsburgh was that the United Steel Workers had a much better case than the steel industry.

Both fact- finders were impressed with the calm and reasonable presentation made by I. W. Abel, new President of the Steel Workers Union.

The Union, they concluded, was not asking for as much as given to aluminum workers by the Aluminum Industry, or as much as Walter Reuther got for the United Auto Workers, or the new wage scale of the Aerospace Workers.

Steel Union leaders pointed out to Morse and Collins -- and this was relayed in turn to the President -- that Reuther got considerably more than 3.2 per cent increase which is supposed to be the amount the President's Council of Economic Advisers has set as allowable without disturbing price structure and causing inflation.

In addition, Reuther got a cost-of-living escalation clause in the Auto Workers contract which already has given the Auto Workers an increase of eight cents an hour.

The two presidential fact-finders learned that new Union Chief Abel was bitter at ex-President Dave McDonald for giving away this escalation clause in return for the paying of insurance premiums by employers. The latter is chicken feed compared with the benefits of escalation.

Morse and Collins recommended to the President that he offer both the Union and the Industry a package, and that it would have to be worth considerably more than 3.2 per cent.

"If I had to name six of the top labor leaders of the country," Sen. Morse, one time head of the War Labor Board, told President Johnson, "I would put Abel high on the list."

Morse and Collins were also impressed with the ability of Federal Mediator William Simkin; reported that he knew the steel case backward and forward.

No, why you ask?

Unk say here in the paper they aint worf two hoops in heck. Here read it.

WOODEN NICKELS ILLEGAL, BICENTENNIAL IS TOLD

CONCORD, N. H., July 17 (AP) Wooden nickles issued as promotion for a bicentennial celebration are illegal tender, the Treasury Department warned the Concord Police Benevolent Association. They are not legal tender and the use for purchases violates federal law regulating substitutes for currency, the Treasury said.

The bicentennial committee told 50 merchants to revise posters saying "We give or take wooden nickels" and said none of the coins should be accepted in payment.

Meanwhile the police department said some persons had been mailing in the wooden nickels to pay parking fines and that they were becoming collectors' items "worth 15 or 20 cents."

CHRONIC CRIMINALS

The rate of serious crimes in the United States is increasing six times as fast as the population growth, according to the FBI. On the average, a murder, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, "burglary, serious larceny, or automobile theft occurs every 15 minutes in the United States. The annual increase in these serious crimes is 11 per cent.

No wonder the president of the American Bar Association has warned, "The rising crime rate in the United States is the nation's number one domestic problem."

But an important added point is that more than 95 per cent of our young people do not become involved in crime. Less than five per cent of the youngsters are represented in 48 per cent of the arrests for serious crime!

Of all persons arrested last year, 76% were repeaters. The result is a steady production of chronic criminals.

Our courts have much to answer for in this connection. Too many judges seem to have forgotten that the purpose of a trial is to find out the truth as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant. Many ignore the fact that our criminal laws are enacted primarily for the protection of society rather than for the protection of criminals.

The FBI statistics show that young people are responsible for a greatly disproportionate share of serious crime. Young people were involved in 48% of the arrests for serious crime last year. If the young become interested in good and evil to the extent they would vocally debate the solutions most desired, crime would lose its luster. HLH

Mrs. Samuel J. Potashnick

Janie Elizabeth Springs Is Wed To Samuel J. Potashnick

First Methodist Church was the scene Saturday, August twenty-eighth, at two o'clock in the afternoon of the wedding of Miss Janie Elizabeth Springs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Springs, and Samuel J. Potashnick, son of Ralph Potashnick of Roseville, Calif., and Mrs. Ralph Potashnick of Sikeston.

The Reverend Joseph Wagner performed the double ring ceremony before a setting of a white prie dieu flanked with baskets of white gladioli and brass candelabra. A large candelabra stood behind the altar. Two bouquets decorated the altar table. A white bridal carpet completed the church decorations.

Miss Neva Mae Taylor, organist, provided the wedding music and accopanied Miss Patty McMullin, soloist, who sang, "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length silk gras de londres gown. The empire bodice was fashioned with a demure scoop neckline and long sleeves that came to points over the hands. Tiny covered buttons decorated the sleeves. These were repeated down the back of the chapel train attached to the neckline. Seed pearls on Alencon lace appliques highlighted the slim skirt and sides of the train. Her headpiece was an elbow-length veil of silk illusion attached to a crown of reembroidered lace with crystals and seed pearls.

She carried a bouquet of white vanda orchids and stephanotis on a lace covered Bible.

Mrs. Jim Cox was matron of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Frances Potashnick, twin sister of the bride. Mrs. Dave Garner was candlelighter.

The attendants wore floor-length gowns of silk chiffon over taffeta and lace. Their gowns were in colors of coral, champagne and autumn gold. Their bouquets were round arrangements of feathered carnations and pompon chrysanthemums in colors to match their gowns. The bouquets were carried over the hands with a satin ribbon.

John L. Wilson, Jr., of Sikeston was best man. Bob Kellett of Crystal City was groomsman. Ushers were Charles David Springs, brother of the bride; Fielding Potashnick, cousin of the groom; Terry Dame, Phil Vaughn, Edward Berry and Rene DeKriek. Edward Berry and Terry Dame also served as candlelighters.

Mrs. Springs chose for her daughter's wedding an ensemble of bone collored silk linen and lace. She wore bone accessories and an orchid corsage. The groom's grandmother wore a white dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

A reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered cake and silver punch bowl. Greenery encircled the cake and punch bowl. Three branch candelabra holding white tapers appointed the table. Nuts and mints were also served to the guests.

Miss Jane Ella Yount, Miss Lynette Caskey, Mrs. Larry Steward and Miss Suzanne Gilmore assisted in serving at the reception. Mrs. Charles David Springs assisted the hostess. Chuck and Chris Springs, nephews of the bride, passed out little rice bags at the reception. They were in white baskets trimmed with white bows and lilies of the valley. The rice bags were white and coral net.

Following the reception, the new Mr. and Mrs. Potashnick took a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For traveling, Mrs. Potashnick chose a navy and beige cotton A-line skirt topped with a beige sleeveless dress. The jacket has a trimming of the navy material.

After September 14, the couple will be at home in Columbia where the groom will attend school.

Out-of-town guests attending the Springs-Potashnick wedding were Mrs. Bertha Tucker of Prairie City, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Bill Denton and daughter Ellie of Hot Springs, Ark., Virginia and Barbara Brewington of San Diego, Calif., Amy Jordon and Mack Seales of Memphis, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Calder Ehrmann of St. Louis and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Anderson of Blytheville, Ark.

On Friday, August 27, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clinton were host and hostess for the rehearsal dinner at their home. A buffet dinner was served. The tables were appropriately decorated. Members of the wedding party attended the dinner.

Mrs. Milford Estes and Mrs. Preston Alley were hostesses for the bridesmaids luncheon held Thursday, August 26. The former Miss Springs presented gifts to her attendants. The bride's chosen colors were carried out in decorations.

Koufax, Drysdale Lose; Reds In First

Bucs Hand Bums Losses; Hopeful Cards Rip Cubs 9-0

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Like Humpty Dumpty, the Los Angeles Dodgers have had a great fall, and now they must wonder whether Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale can put them back together again.

Koufax and Drysdale, the winningest pair of pitchers on any team in the majors, were on the bottom of the fall Wednesday night as the charging Pittsburgh Pirates dropped them in a doubleheader 3-2 in 11 innings and 2-1.

The double defeat tumbled the Dodgers out of the National League lead because at the same time Cincinnati swept a pair from Milwaukee 7-6 and 2-0. That put the Reds on top, one percentage point ahead of the Dodgers.

The San Francisco Giants, who were rained out at Philadelphia, are one-half game back, the Braves are in fourth, two behind, and the fifth-place Pirates — with 10 victories in their last 11 games — trail by only 2½ games.

In other NL games, St. Louis trounced Chicago 9-0 and New York defeated Houston 4-1 before bowing 8-5.

In the American League, Minnesota beat Detroit 5-2, Kansas City nipped Cleveland 4-3, Washington stopped Boston 8-7 and Los Angeles edged New York 7-6 in 12 innings. Rain washed out Chicago at Baltimore.

En route to his latest loss, Koufax broke his 1963 National League season strikeout record of 306 by fanning 10 Pirates and bringing his total to 313, just 35 away from Bob Feller's all-time mark.

The Pirates won the game in the 11th on a walk to Willie Stargell and Jim Pagliaroni's double. In the nightcap, Bill Virdon, who tied the contest with a sixth-inning homer, singled in the eighth, raced to third on Roberto Clemente's single and scored as Maury Wills fumbled Manny Mota's grounder.

The Reds won the opener with two runs in the ninth when rookie Tommy Helms tripled home Marty Keough and scored as Tom Harper singled. Deron Johnson drove in three Cincinnati runs with two homers while Mack Jones and Hank Aaron knocked in a pair for the Braves.

Jim Maloney, now 17-6, pitched a five-hitter and struck out 12 in the nightcap. Tony Perez supported Maloney with a second-inning homer.

Tracy Stallard posted the Cardinals' second straight shutout over the Cubs with a three-hitter. Curt Flood knocked in two runs while Bob Skinner homered.

Joe Christopher's two-run triple in the eighth helped New York's Al Jackson to his seventh victory against 17 defeats in the opener. The Astros came back for the second-game victory as Rusty Staub hit a three-run homer and Jim Gentile drove in three runs with two homers.

The St. Louis Cardinals are proving to be a pretty live corpse.

Eight games out of first place with only 28 to play, and with six teams ahead of them, the Cardinals appear certain to give up their World Championship flag.

They blanked the Cubs for the second straight day Wednesday, 9-0, in Chicago for their seventh vicotry in nine games to bring them to the .500 mark.

Tracy Stallard extended St. Louis' scoreless pitching to 22 innings, cutting off the Cubs on three hits. It was only the third complete game for Stallard, now 9-6.

The righthander walked only one, struck out eight and retired 14 straight hitters at one stretch.

Bob Skinner gave him the run he needed with his fifth homer in the second. The score was 4-0 when the Cardinals wrapped up the contest with five markers in the eighth.

The teams conclude the three-game set today with Ray Washburn 8-10 of the Cards scheduled to face Bob Hendley 1-2.

Redleg's Worries Helped By Helms

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds were back on top of the National League today but their mathematical margin-- .001 -- was far smaller than Manager Dick Sisler's worries.

"Billy McCool and Ted Davidson just can't continue to work as often as they have been," Sisler said after his Reds took two games from Milwaukee, 7-6 and 2-0, to move up past Los Angeles.

"Who do I have to give them help? A question. Maybe someone will fill the gap. I just couldn't tell you who it might be now because I don't know."

Both the young relief pitchers worked in the first game where the Reds came from behind to win, and McCool picked up the victory, evening his record at 8-8. Jim Maloney, now 17-6, shut out the Braves on five hits in the second game.

"Then there is Leo Cardenas," Sisler continued. "He missed his first game of the season. . . he is having eye trouble. Leo told me both of his eyes are watering and cannot see the ball very well.

"I hope the doctor finds the trouble quickly."

Cardenas was out of the Reds' line-up at shortstop for the first time in 131 games in the nightcap, but the Reds hardly missed him because of their newest sensation, a 24-year-old infielder, Tommy Helms, who was called up from San Diego earlier in the week.

Helms tied the first game with a pinch triple in the ninth inning and came through with a single, a double and a triple in the second game.

IN KNEED—The San Francisco Giants, making a strong bid for the National League pennant, can use the power of firstbaseman Orlando Cepeda who seems to have recovered from a knee injury and is ready to play regularly.

Roseboro Files $110,000 Suit Against Marichal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Catcher John Roseboro of the Los Angeles Dodgers has filed a $110,000 damage suit against the San Francisco Giants and their star pitcher, Juan Marichal, who clubbed Roseboro with a baseball bat Aug. 22

Roseboro's attorney, Leo Branton Jr., said in Los Angeles that a complaint has been filed in Superior Court against Marichal and the Giants seeking $10,000 in general damages and $100,000 in exemplary and punitive damages.

He said the suit avers that Marichal "did without provocation commit assault and battery against the plaintiff with a deadly weapon, that Roseboro was severely injured and was caused pain and suffering."

Roseboro, in Pittsburgh for the Dodgers' series against the Pirates, said in a statement Wednesday night he brought suit for "the unprovoked attack made upon me at Candlestick Park. . ." Marichal opened a two-inch gash on Roseboro's head in the explosive brawl. Roseboro said, "My decision to take this action is due not only to the brutal attack upon my person, but, just as important, is due to the fact that some severe action should be taken against a man who not only set a bad example for millions of baseball fans throughout the world, but apparently from recent statements has attempted to defend and justify his outrageous conduct."

Marichal, in Philadelphia where his first scheduled start since the incident was washed out, declined comment except to say, "I wish I had that much, half that much, quarter that much."

President Warren Giles of the National League suspended Marichal for eight playing days, fined him $1,750 and ordered him to stay out of Los Angeles for the Giants' last trip there Monday and Tuesday.

Commercial sponges are taken from the bottom of the sea from tidal level to a depth of about 200 feet. In shallow waters they are picked with a two or three-pronged hook. Diving for sponges without any equipment is still practiced in Greece, along the Libyan coast, and in the Philippines. Sponges are the simplest animals known to man and have been in use from ancient times. Greek mothers pacified their babies with sponges soaked in honey.

Oliva Surges Toward Second Batting Title

When baseball starts handing out its postseason awards, it's just possible that Minnesota's Tony Oliva will wind up with his second silver bat and first purple heart.

Oliva, who has been playing all season long with a bone chip in the middle finger of his right hand, came back from a week's layoff Wednesday night and resumed defense of his American League batting title with two doubles and a single in the Twins' 5-2 victory over Detroit.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PITCHING — Jim Maloney, Reds, completed 7-6, 2-0 doubleheader sweep by blanking Milwaukee on five hits as Cincinnati took over the National League lead by one percentage point over Los Angeles.

BATTING — Tony Oliva, Twins, returned to line-up after a week's absence and stroked two doubles and a single as Minnesota downed Detroit 5-2 and increased its American League lead to eight games.

Q—What great general is said to have slept with a copy of the epics of Homer under his head?

A—Alexander the Great.

Q—Did Noah have any daughters?

A—There is little doubt that Noah did have daughters, but their names are not mentioned.

The 24-year-old left-handed swinger still trails Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, who is hitting .323, and Brooks Robinson of Baltimore, swinging at a .319 clip, in the three-way struggle for the title and the silver bat that goes with it.

But Oliva's 3-for-4 performance quickly shot him back into contention with a .315 mark as he attempts to become the first batting champion to repeat since Boston's Ted Williams accomplished the feat in 1957 and 1958.

While Oliva resumed his chase for the batting title, the front-running Twins moved eight games ahead of second-place Chicago in the AL pennant race. The White Sox were rained out at Baltimore.

Elsewhere, Kansas City edged Cleveland 4-3, Washington outlasted Boston 8-7 and the Los Angeles Angels nipped the New York Yankees 7-6 in 12 innings.

Oliva, who is second in the league in runs scored with 96, third in doubles with 33 and fourth in runs batted in with 83, doubled home the first run and then scored on a passed ball in a three-run first inning outburst against the Tigers.

Home runs by Bill Bryan and Wayne Causey got the job done for the A's. The Indians took a 2-0 lead against John O'Donoghue in the second but Bryan hit a three-run shot in the A's half and Causey hit what turned out to be the clincher with the bases empty in the sixth inning off Luis Tiant.

The Senators pulled out front to stay, 8-6, in the seventh inning after the Red Sox had tied the score in their half with a three-run rally built on Jim Gosger's double, four walks, two wild pitches and a sacrifice fly. Ken McMullen's double and Willie Kirland's single broke the tie and Don Lock singled in the final run.

The Yankees contributed to their own downfall by committing seven errors and having two men picked off. The winning run in the 12th was set up when Pedro Ramos issued two-out walks to Bob Rodgers and Paul Schaal. Jose Cardenal then singled Rodgers home with the winning run for the Angels.

Five Will Report To Cardinals

ST. LOUIS AP -- The St. Louis Cardinals summoned five players from their Jacksonville, Fla., International League farm club yesterday with hopes of getting help for another pennant surge.

The Cardinals, 8 games out of first place in the National League, have won seven of their last nine games and have visions of the kind of late-season drive that brought them the pennant last year.

The Cardinals recalled outfielder Bobby Tolan, who has been leading the International League in runs, hits and triples and who is batting .298, and pitcher Barney Schultz, sent down a month ago.

The Redbirds bought the contracts of first baseman George Kernek, who is batting .286, and right handed pitchers Dennis Aust 8-4 with Jacksonville and Earl Francis 9-11, a former Pittsburgh Pirate hurler.

All five report Friday for the weekend series with the New York Mets.

The Cardinals also recalled Tulsa pitcher Larry Jaster, who may join the club after the Texas league playoffs.

Also recalled but not to join the club this year as Jacksonville pitchers Fritz Ackley and Dick Hughes and infielder-outfielder Ed Spezio and pitcher Mike Buise and outfielder Art Deras from Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

For 50 years, from 1820 to 1870, the Mississippi steamboat dominated the economy, agriculture, commerce and social customs of the middle area of the United States. Though they were colorful "palaces on paddle wheels" they were also known as "swimming volcanoes." From 1810 to 1850 alone an estimated 4,000 persons died in steamboat disasters on the Mississippi.

Vacation-Driving In Armchair Comfort

That smooth, comfortable car ride you take for granted is more of a marvel than you may think. Whether you ride on a freeway or a bumpy side road, you're subjected to thousands of vibrations and shocks which cause changes in your blood circulation, heart action, and respiration. These bring on fatigue and impair your ability to concentrate.

To protect you, car manufacturers have perfected the science of "comfort engineering." Mock-ups of cotton-cushioned car seats show them which styles best protect you against road shock, for example. Even the honk of your car horn is the result of repeated tests by sound specialists!

By following proper driving procedure and taking advantage of the latest refinements by automotive engineers, you'll find driving safer and more pleasant than ever before. And why not? You're driving in armchair comfort.

Road Work, Routine Arouse Township Ire

DEXTER--A controversy has broken out among Liberty township officials concerning road work and routine administration of township affairs. The three members of the board are Bill Phillips, trustee, Willis Middleton and Sam Davis. Middleton serves as the board president.

The disagreement between the officials seems to have three main sources. Charges have been made that (1) A "wider than usual" road has been built near the proposed shopping center north of Dexter, (2) that the township is "operating in the red" and (3) that the township board has purchased "antique" blacktopping equipment, over the objection of at least one board member.

The road in question that is receiving criticism from one board member is the three-quarter miles of road just west of the proposed shopping center. The road, according to Bill Phillips, is 100 feet wide -- much wider than other township roads that range from 40 to 60 foot widths. The cost of this road is also being discussed.

According to Middleton, the "stories that are out" on the cost of this road are out of proportion that labor on the road was approximately $1,000. Phillips on the other hand, said that clearing of the trees 'alone' would have cost this much. In close connection with this; road is the fact that township equipment is being used to work on the roads in the shopping center. Claude Arnold, legal counsel for the township board, attended the Saturday morning session to offer advice on some of the matters in question. According to Mr. Arnold the township machinery paid for by the taxpayers for use on public roads, cannot be "hired out" for use on private enterprise.

Phillips further added that "not one cent" of money has come into the township office for any work that was done on the shopping center.

Henry Glenn, resident of the area near the proposed shopping center, was present to request that the road be continued on south and the newest, terminating at the Hickory House Motel.

This was agreed to in a previous contract, Glenn pointed out, and asked that the work be done before winter. Board members said that since the agreement had been made and a contract signed, work would begin immediately.

The second charge, that the township is operating in the red, came from Willis Middleton who said that "the board doesn't seem concerned with the fact that the way we are going, we will be 50 to 60 thousand dollars in the red at the end of this year."

Phillips, in discussing the monetary problems of the board said that when he took office on April 10, the township was operating without funds. He further added that the blacktopping of several roads was being paid for by the farmers and was not costing the township anything but the labor in laying the road.

In connection with this came the third point the men are disagreeing about -- purchase of black topping equipment.

According to Middleton who said "I was opposed to buying this equipment, I was in favor of spending the money on better bridges. Some of the farmers with wide machinery are having trouble crossing some of the township bridges. Some of our bridges are old and should have been replaced long ago."

Phillips, on the other hand, backed up his reason for purchase of the equipment with these claims: When a blacktop road is laid in the township, farmers are paying for it, so the township cost is labor. The city of Dexter was paid $10.25 per hour by the township for use of city blacktopping equipment, he said, which ran the repair bill on the four miles of Frant Road from the city limits to the Four Mile Road to approximately $850 last spring.

The cost of the blacktopping equipment recently purchased was $2200, according to Phillips. Middleton charged that the equipment is "antique" and emphasized again that he "did not want to buy the equipment".

Phillips, in discussing the equipment said that at the time of purchase it was being used by the State Highway Department. Middleton, who refused to sign the warrant at the time of purchase, is required to do so if two-thirds of the board is in agreement, it was pointed out.

In other discussion concerning, the blacktopping of township roads, Phillips said that the maintenance of the blacktop road would not be as much as would be the cost of grading a road. He said that gravel roads were supposed to be graded 26 times a year. Middleton maintains that the township will not have many miles of blacktop and that the money should have been used elsewhere.

At the present time there are eight miles of blacktop roads in the township and Phillips said he had money in the bank from the farmers for at least three more miles and that the demand for blacktop roads is increasing.

Election Will Fill Vacancy In Dunklin

KENNETT -- Gov. Warren E. Hearns says that he plans to call a special election to fill the post of Dunklin County state representative early in October.

The death of Rep. Charles B. James created the vacancy.

The chief executive said he had already made plans to call the special election in view of his intention of calling a special session of the general assembly after October 15 to reconsider apportionment of the House of Representatives.

"I think the citizens of Dunklin County should have representation during that special session," the governor said.

The chief executive said his office will prepare two special election writs. One will call for a special election in Dunklin county and the second will call for a special election in the sixteenth senatorial district to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Sen. Jack C. Jones of Carrollton.

Senator Jones, chairman of the Committee on Banks and Banking and Financial Institutions in the upper legislative chamber, was sworn in as a referee in bankruptcy and has resigned from his post in the general assembly.

Gov. Hearnes today said he would call a special session of the legislature between the middle of October and the first of November to consider the question of reapportionment of the House of Representatives. Voters turned down a proposed constitutional amendment Aug. 17, to divide the House into 168 districts. The chief executive has asked that another constitutional amendment be submitted, this one establishing a bipartisan commission to reapportion the lower legislative chamber.

Accept Bids On Ditch

KENNETT -- The Dunklin county court will accept bids on the construction of rehabilitation of the main ditch of drainage district No. 27 until 10 a.m. Sept. 15.

The ditch east of Caruth beween old highway 25, and the floodways, will be completely cleared and redug, according to Charles C. Redman, Jr., Kennett engineer and surveyor. Redman has been designated as the engineer in charge of the project.

Stagnation marks U. S. relations with Western Europe. Johnson has hewed to American policy favoring European unity and closer transatlantic ties. A revival of talk about a multilateral nuclear force is expected after West Germany's elections this fall.

DID NYLON STOCKINGS COST LESS WHEN MOM WAS A GIRL

Any woman knows better. A generation ago Nylon hose hadn't been invented. You couldn't buy them at any price.

The same is true of today's medicines. It isn't logical to say, "Prescriptions cost more than they used to." Most of today's drugs weren't available at any price 10 or 20 years ago. In fact, three quarters of the prescriptions written today, are for drugs that didn't exist ten years ago.

Today, Americans spend only one cent from every disposable dollar on drugs. This share is no more than we spent in 1939! Also, today's drugs work faster. They are more efficient. They do much to reduce your total cost of illness. That's why we say: "Today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history."

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: How does a woman recover when The Love of Her Life says, "Goodbye?"

I was married to a man who was more like a father to me than a husband. He was 20 years my senior and died after we were married only four years. Then I met an attractive, intellectually stimulating, physically exciting man. I fell in love for the very first time. We had a mad, ecstatic affair and I gave myself to him body and soul. We talked of marriage and I was sure we were matched in heaven. My dreams collapsed when he told me I'd better forget about him because we were not "right" for each other.

It has been several months now and I can't get him out of my mind. I compare my love with every man I meet and there IS no comparison. Please tell me how can a woman recover from a broken heart? -- EMPTY

Dear Empty: Tell yourself it is self-defeating to cling to bits and pieces of something that no longer exists.

The woman who grieves over The Man Who Got Away has a talent for screening out all the unpleasant aspects of the relationship. She remembers only the heavenly moments. As time passes and memory dims, the dead romance becomes more beautiful in death than it ever was in life.

The man can accommodate only one thought at a time. Substitute another thought -- something real and constructive for the fantasy.

Dear Ann Landers: I worked as a hotel maid for ten years and now I work in a motel. It's the same difference. The people who drive up in the most expensive cars and have the fanciest luggage are the biggest pigs. I hope you will print something about the way folks behave when they get outside their own homes. It's disgraceful.

Can you imagine grown people wiping their shoes on bedspreads and using face towels to polish their cars? Well, they do. They also spill ink on the walls, leave beer cans and whiskey bottles under the beds, and walk out with 10¢ water glasses.

They check out leaving the TV on and the dirty water in the bath tub. The worst pigs of all leave no tip for the maid who has to clean up the mess and make the room look perfect for the next guests.

If you print this, thousands of hard-working women will thank you. --FED UP WITH PEOPLE

Dear Fed: Here it is, and you're welcome. I stornglY recommend that neat folks who travel leave 50¢ a night for the maid. Pigs who travel should leave $1.

Dear Ann Landers: My married daughter lives in another city but I visit her quite often. She has teen-age children and a nice husband. Since her marriage she has developed a habit which I'm sure is keeping her back socially. She laughs too loud and too long.

It's plain to me that the girl has many acquaintances but no friends. I can see people cringe and actually withdraw from her before she gets a chance to show her fine qualities. She is exhausting, both to herself and to others.

I cannot discuss this with her because she would resent it. Is there any way I can help?--D. TROIT

Dear D.: The girl's loud laughter is not the problem. It is only the symptom of a deeper problem which she is trying to cover up. If her husband is an understanding man suggest that he urge her to get professional help. If not, then suggest it yourself and risk the resentment.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Accidents Leading Killer Of Americans Under 35

Americans live dangerously. This is the conclusion to be drawn from the following grim statistics recently released by the U. S. Public Health Service:

. Accidents killed 104,000 people in 1964, and were the leading cause of death among Americans aged one to 34.

. Some 53,000,000 Americans were hurt seriously enough last year to require medical attention or restrict their activity one day or more.

. Accidents in and around the home accounted for about 45% of all injuries. Put another way, some 23,000,000 Americans (out of the total of 53,000,000 injured) were hurt right on home ground.

PREVENTABLE 'DISEASE'

Although people seem to regard accidents as inevitable, they are not, according to Dr. Paul V. Joliet, Chief of the Division of Accident Prevention, U. S. Public Health Service, and several of his colleagues. These experts noted recently that "it is known that many, and probably most, of the accidents and their resulting deaths, injuries, and other consequences could be prevented."

The home is full of potential danger for the unwary, the unthinking, the uninformed. Cleaning fluid, furniture polish, ammonia, nail polish remover, moth balls, insecticides, paint, kerosene, and many other such ordinary and useful supplies, are poisonous. Unless they are kept out of the reach of toddlers they may be misused, with possibly tragic consequences.

For instance, in 1963, the 335 Poison Control Centers in 40 states handled nearly 47,000 individual cases of poisoning of children under five years of age. More than three-fourths of these children were between the ages of one and three.

Youngsters, curious about the world, eager to explore every nook and cranny, must be protected from themselves.

DANGERS NOTED

The medicine cabinet is a source of interest--and danger --for young explorers, as are matches, knives, stove, fireplace, window. Objects which can be placed well out of reach should be. Those that cannot should be locked up.

Just as important, though, is keeping an eye on junior. He shouldn't be left alone in the kitchen when food is cooking. One grab of a pot handle and he could be scalded. And the bath is fun, but no small child should be left alone in it for even a moment.

Where do your doors lead--to garage, driveway, storage areas? If so, they should be secured against the time Mr. Curious decides to go on an expedition alone. An those electrical outlets are great, especially for prying little fingers holding pointed metal instruments. Block them.

FALLING A HAZARD

Some 7,000,000 people a year are injured in falls in and about the home. . .between 11,000 and 12,000 of them fatally, according to the U. S. Public Health Service. Surely, this shocking figure should cause all of us to ask ourselves some basic questions.

Should the floors be so highly waxed? Does the rug need tacking where it curls up off the floor? Should the stair carpeting be removed or mended where there's a small hole to catch a heel? Would a mat in the bottom of the tub make it less slippery? Should a gate be placed in front of a stair to discourage baby's climbing up and falling down?

Are there holes in the backyard lawn? Have the croquet mallet, basketball, miscellaneous toys been picked up and out of home can be accident-proofed. been picked up and out of the way? Is there enough light over the porch steps?

These are but a few ways the home can be accident-proofed.

Congress Responds To Johnson Touch

EDITOR'S NOTE—Getting along with Congress has been developed to a fine art by President Johnson, and the legislative assembly line is producing at a remarkable clip. This second of four articles on LBJ in action focuses on his winning ways with lawmakers.

WASHINGTON (A) — Congress is responding like a giant computer to President Johnson's touch, rolling out in record-breaking volume legislation aimed at altering the course of American life.

By the time it adjourns for the year, probably in September, the administration - controlled Congress will have produced an astounding compilation of measures aimed at bolstering the economy and lifting the poor and oppressed to higher social and economic levels.

While this was going on, the President succeeded in smothering all but a recalcitrant few voices of opposition among the legislators to his course in Viet Nam. His judgment that there is no substantial dissent to the policies he is pursuing is generally accepted as accurate.

In his 21 months as President, Johnson has gone far beyond the New Deal of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the predecessor he reveres, to push the federal government into areas FDR never dared invade.

Now his task, as the President sees it, is to turn from the field of what Richard Goodwin, a presidential aide, called "material want" toward the improvement of "the quality of human life."

Translated, this means highway beautification, rebuilding of the nation's slum - scarred cities, elimination of water and air pollution, and expansion of recreation facilities.

Perhaps Congress will not be so docile in the future, but for practical purposes Johnson has got just about everything he asked for out of a body in which the Democrats outnumber the Republicans 2 to 1.

Major examples of his accomplishments include the Negro voting rights bill, health care for the elderly, aid to secondary educations, a $7-billion housing program, establishment of a housing and urban affairs department, a $4.6-billion exise tax cut, mental health grants, military pay increases and a proposed constitutional amendment on presidential disability.

Also Congress has given Johnson most of what he asked for foreign aid.

In the mill are measures for aid to higher education, abolition of the immigration quota system, repeal of the Taft-Hartley right to work provision, doubling of the antipoverty program, expansion of minimum wage coverage and a new program of farm price supports.

To accomplish these results, Johnson has done about everything but walk on water. He has pleaded, cajoled, flattered and persuaded with round-the-clock persistence probably never equalled in White House-Congress relations.

On occasion he has twisted a reluctant arm and has knocked a few heads together. He has rewarded his friends and, in most instances, has placated his critics.

Because he was a member of the inner circle in the House and Senate for many years, Johnson reads the lawmakers as though he were checking their diaries. He knows the ambitions, the strength and weaknesses of the men with whom he deals.

He not only talks the language of Congress, he enjoys it. It was his way of life for about 28 years and for him it was the good life.

Beyond that, Johnson knows that the craving for presidential recognition is universal. He gives of it liberally, passing out pens at bill signings, posing for photos with Senate and House members, calling up members on their birthdays inviting them to the White House and paying little informal calls on them that will be duly recorded in the press.

All of this might not have been enough, however, if Johnson had not suppressed his natural partisanship most of the time to build consensus support in Congress. With some eceptions he has been as kind to Republicans as to Democrats. Only last week, the President turned aside with soft words an assault by House Republicans on the administration's Viet Nam war policies.

All this has paid off. He might never have been able to get a voting rights bill passed, for example, if he had not given Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois a virtually free hand in hammering out its terms.

But a congressional election year lies ahead in 1966. Things may turn a bit more partisan then and there may be a few political weeds among the presidential roses.

State Preparing For 4,800 Students

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Preparations are being made at Southeast Missouri State College for the arrival of a record 4,800 students expected this fall.

Freshman -- possibly more than 2,000 of them -- have been asked to report Tuesday, for the opening of freshman orientation. The new students will eat supper together, then gather in the football stadium for a welcome from College officials. A free swim in the city swimming pool has been arranged to end the day's activities.

Freshman orientation, in small groups led by upperclass students, continues throughout registration week.

Registration for all classes gets underway next Wednesday, and continues through Thursday. About 3,300 students have already enrolled during pre-enrollment sessions held the past spring and summer.

Classes begin 8 a.m. Sept. 10.

Residence and classroom facilities -- both on and off the campus -- are expected to be at capacity. A new classroom building and two 12-story dormitories are currently under construction, but will not be available for use this year. A major remodeling and expansion of the library is being planned, but construction will not begin there until late next winter.

With housing space at a premium, College officials have instituted temporary measures to alleviate the situation until the completion of the new residence halls on the campus.

About 400 additional students will be housed in College facilities this year, by adding another student to rooms which previously housed only two.

About 80 more students will be housed in a local hotel, two floors of which have been secured by the College.

Classroom space is also expected to be in almost constant use, although it is not expected that there will be a shortage of space.

A number of activities are planned for registration week. Freshmen will produce a talent show in Academic Hall Auditorium on September 10, while informal dances have been scheduled for Thursday and Saturday nights.

On next Wednesday campus organizations will present displays at the football field in "Wheel's Night," an event designed to give new students information about extracurricular activities available to them.

On Sept. 11, campus social sororities will sponsor a carnival, set for 6 p.m. on the lawn at Academic Hall. Earlier in the day, fraternities and sororities will hold open house in their quarters at the College's Group Hosing complex.

A reception by Dr. Mark F. Scully, President of the College, will be held for new students Sept. 12, at 2 p.m. in Memorial Hall. A Bar-B-Q will be held on the Academic Hall lawn at 5 p.m., sponsored by the Student Union Board.

A FEW OBSERVATIONS ON THE MEANING OF THE EIGHTH AMENDMENT

Continued Mr. Justice White added:

The Court majority held that jail was too strong a "medicine" for narcotics users, and that even two or three months of confinement constituted "cruel and unusual punishment" within the meaning of the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments. The case rises some interesting questions: In its laudable desire to be humane, is the law reaching so far that it defeats the purpose of the law itself? Or, as the dissenters suggest, has sentimentality for criminals overcome common sense in interpreting our Constitution? As a necessary part of these questions, we may usefully inquire into the true interpretation of the prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment. It is to this point that this article is addressed.

2. The Early Background

While science generally languished in medieval England, one science proceeded to an advanced state, the techniques of inflicting pain on those convicted of crime. Such techniques became progressively more refined as man became more enlightened. So we are told:

In England there was a time when punishment was by torture, by loading him with weights to make him confess. Traitors were condemned to be drowned, disemboweled, or burned. It was the law "that the offender shall be drawn, or rather dragged, to the gallows; he shall be hanged and cut down alive; his entrails shall be removed and burned while he yet lives; his head shall be decapitated; his body divided into four parts." Browne, Bl. Com. 617. For certain other offenses the offender was punished by cutting off the hands or ears, or boiling in oil, or putting in the pillory. By the Roman law a parricide was punished by being sewed up in a leather sack with a live dog, a cock, a viper, and an ape, and cast into the sea.

We find an Act of Parliament as late as 22 Hen. VIII (1531) authorizing one Rouse to be thrown into boiling water and boiled to death for the offense of poisoning the family of the Bishop of Rochester. And in the famous judgment against Titus Oakes upon conviction of perjury, the House of Lords ordered, in pertinent part, that Oakes carry out certain penances every year for the rest of his life; and that he be committed close prisoner, as long as he shall live.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

Three thousand eight hundred eighteen students in grades one to twelve reported Monday for an all time opening day enrollment record. This was slightly over 100 more pupils than were counted on last year's opening day and this continues the upward trend which has been the pattern for the past fifteen years with one exception, as in 1954 we had a slight decrease in enrollment.

We anticipate that probably 25 to 50 more students will enroll before the end of September. Our accumulative enrollment will go above 4,000 this year and the figures given above include only resident students. There are 150 two day school students from neighboring communities enrolled in our vocational program. These students report here for half day classes in one of the many vocational subjects available and then attend regular classes at their home school the remainder of the day.

This year we will also have approximately 1,000 adults enrolled in adult education, primarily vocational in nature. Many of these people will be enrolled for a full six hour daily program, beginning at the close of the regular school day and extending until 10:30 p.m.

Not only has our college preparatory program been improved with courses specifically pointed toward that goal for students and with the addition of some new courses, but there are several vocational courses in the curriculum this year which were not available last year. These new courses include Graphic Arts, Refrigeration, Power Equipment Mechanics, and specialized Vocational Business Education.

We have over thirty units of vocational education available at the secondary level plus over sixty units of classes for the college bound student or for the non-vocational student who expects to close his formal education at the end of high school. This total of over ninety secondary units of class work is broad enough to meet the needs of almost any student, regardless of his future plans.

Our total faculty of 202 teachers includes 30 who did not teach here last year, although a few of them have been faculty members here in previous years. Of these, 31 are replacements for teachers who for some reason left the system at the close of the last school year and 18 fill newly created positions. Some of these additional positions are required because of the slow but steady increase in enrollment and the others are because of the vocational program, special education or special supervisors now required in our program. We are of the opinion that we have the most well-balanced and efficient faculties that we have had here thus far during my experience.

A great deal is being said throughout the nation about some of the Economic Opportunity Act programs, many times referred to as "anit-poverty" programs. There is considerable criticism, some of it justified perhaps, but most, in our opinion, is because of lack of information about what is actually taking place.

We have conducted two of the programs during the summer. One was the "Head Start" program for pre-school children. The majority of these youngsters were from extremely low income families, where it is assumed, with probable justification, that their background is not equal to that of children coming from homes where there is more money to buy the things that help to provide a good pre-school experience and background for children. Not all of the children were from the extreme low income group as a certain per cent of enrollees could be from any income level. These children, 60 of them in all, were taught by carefully selected teachers with particular training for instructing this age child. In addition, these teachers were enrolled in a course at Oklahoma State University specifically planned for Head Start teachers. Each teacher had one assistant or "teacher aid." These girls were college students, graduates of our high school, and enrolled last year in teacher training courses. The program, planned to provide experience to get these children ready for school, lasted eight weeks. It is the opinion of those who are familiar with and who worked with Head Start here that it is probably one of our most successful extra programs. We believe that these children will be greatly benefited by this experience and that they will be many weeks ahead of where they normally would have been, as they now enroll in first grade classes. We expect to keep careful records and to give certain tests to find out if this is true. We are convinced that the program is of sufficient value that if at all possible it will be continued.

We conducted another program, called the Neighborhood Youth Corps, that we are not quite so strongly sold on, although, we believe that it too was reasonably successful and probably should be continued. Because of the short time in which we had to plan Neighborhood Youth Corps, we were not able to do some of the things which we should have done. We will do better next time.

The idea of this program was to provide employment around the school or other public institutions, to give income to youth from very low income families in order that they might continue in school. The majority of these young people were willing to work for what they received while some others were not. Those who were not willing to put in an honest hours work for an hours pay will not be employed again as we do not feel that we are helping a boy or girl unless they learn that, with some unfortunate exceptions, an individual must produce or he won't hold a job. If the program is conducted here again the workers will be carefully screened and supervised and there will be quicker eliminations of those who are not willing to work.

The Board of Education increased teacher's salaries for this year by an average of at least $300 for each faculty member. All teachers did not get exactly the same increase as there was some change in the schedule to provide larger increases for those lowest on the scale. This increase will cost slightly in excess of $60,000 more to be paid from the teacher's fund this year. Teacher's salaries in Missouri, and especially southeast Missouri, are considerably below the national average even though the state of Missouri is twelfth among the states of the union in its financial ability to support education. The fact is that our legislators have not seen fit to allocate money which would give our children equal opportunities with those states willing to provide a more adequate educational program.

LBJ Uses Threats, Praise In Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's weaponry for sessions with past stalemated contract negotiators included veiled threats and warm praise, anecdotes and lectures, a man who has seen him in action said today.

"You don't forget that he's the President — and you don't forget that this is a very tough guy," reported this witness to sessions at which Johnson forestalled a national railway strike.

"He just hangs on and hangs on until he gets what he's after," the man added. He asked that his name not be used.

What Johnson is after now is a contract settlement to avert a strike in the nation's steel industry. A scant six hours after he set negotiators to work in the Executive Office Building, next door to the White House, Johnson announced Monday night an eight-day postponement of the threatened walkout, which had been scheduled at 12:01 a.m. today.

So far, at least, the White House has not reported any personal Johnson missions to the steel bargaining table. But the President was said to be keeping in close touch, through his aides, with the sessions at which Steelworkers President IM W. Abel and industry negotiator R. Conrad Cooper are negotiating under the eye of government mediators.

In the rail industry talks, Johnson's first target was a 15-day strike postponement. He announced it 90 minutes before the strike deadline of April 10, 1964. Thirteen days later, the complex, five-year-old dispute hinging on railroad work rules was settled.

A key session in that dispute came in the Cabinet room, with about 20 people on hand. Johnson talked to both sides, but the man who was there said union representatives balked at the postponement plea.

Johnson, the witness said, led union men out of the Cabinet room and into his private office. Later, when they filed out of his office, the President said they had agreed to the delay.

The source said Johnson confided later that he had talked to some of them in his bathroom. The President, this man said, called it "my outhouse meeting."

He also told of a complaint to Johnson from President Charles Luna of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Luna, he said, complained talk of compulsory arbitration on Capitol Hill was a noose around labor's neck. Johnson, pressing his plea for a strike postponement, was quoted as replying in roughly these terms:

"Now Charlie, you're a Texan and I'm a Texan and it's not like one of those damyankees asking you to do this."

At another point, the source recounted, one union man took issue with a Johnson remark. "I'm sorry, Mr. President, you're poorly informed," he was quoted as saying.

Johnson was said to have replied he regretted any mistake — and added "but I'm the only president you've got."

After the postponement was agreed upon, Johnson talked to both sides in the dispute. During those remarks, the source said, he twice told a story about a Texas friend who had a 2,000-acre ranch in Cuba but had it seized by the Communist regime there.

Railroad industry men took that as a veiled warning of a possible move for government seizure to avert a strike.

Once, after he had turned off the White House lights as an economy measure, Johnson summoned negotiators to his office at 10 p.m. to report to him on their progress. They told later of stumbling around in the dark on the way to that appointment.

Several times, the President lectured railroad negotiators on the industry's economy, with detailed earnings figures and stock market quotations. And, the source said, he told management men not to be constantly thinking of "the almighty dollar."

"I'm sure that Conrad Cooper has heard more about the almighty dollar in the past two days than he's ever likely to hear again," the source said.

Country Gets New Kind Of Presidency

WASHINGTON — The country is getting a new kind of presidency. Television and changing times are part of the reason.

This week President Johnson looked like an on-the-ball chief executive when he went on television to announce he had obtained an eight-day postponement in the steel strike.

The idea wasn't quite new with him. President John F. Kennedy did pretty much the same kind of thing. Johnson just does more of it.

Kennedy used a televised news conference in 1962 to congratulate the steel union and industry for what he thought was an "obviously noninflationary" settlement.

Then when the industry, to his chagrin, raised prices, Kennedy used another televised news conference to denounce the steelmakers, who backtracked fast and dropped the price boost.

Kennedy and Johnson were doing two things:

Taking action and letting the nation see it close up pretty much as it happened. But, still using the steel industry as an example, they weren't the only presidents who took strong action.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, after getting a postponement but then letting a steel strike start in 1959, finally asked for an injunction to cool it off. In 1952 Harry S. Truman seized the steel mills to prevent a shutdown.

All four men had to take decisive steps in many fields which would have seemed extreme to presidents in the 19th century and to some of them in the first 30 years of this century.

But, with television so handy, presidents in the future, after the examples set by Johnson and Kennedy in using it in tense, national moments, will be expected to go on the air to tell the nation the latest.

Further, since they will be on screens from coast to coast, they won't dare look wishy-washy and must at least try to give the impression of decisive action even when they're hedging.

But since the depression of the 1930s, when the nation had to look to the White House for action, President Franklin D. Roosevelt set the pattern for the future by accepting true responsibility.

Since Roosevelt every president has found himself deeper and deeper in monumental problems that couldn't be ignored or let slide and the reasons for that are obvious.

Gradually, as the American society and the economy have become more interdependent among all their parts, there has been less room for delay or indecision.

The efforts of Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson to prevent or stop a steel strike, which would have meant far less 50 years ago, were all thought necessary to prevent critical economic damage to the whole nation.

And, as the United States moved out of isolationism in the 1940s, firm and fast foreign decisions became a necessity, too. These requirements will grow greater in the future, not less.

Thus, as the nation grows increasingly aware of the need for decisive men in the White House, the caliber of presidents, as has been increasingly seen since the 1930s, will be far different from most of those in the past.

The world needs more ugly Americans

. . . like this Peace Corps Volunteer, who aren't afraid to get their hands dirty. Who won't rid the world of hunger, disease or ignorance, but who will make a start.

It's not a glamorous job. It's hard work. And often disappointing, because volunteers will rarely see half the results they had hoped for.

But they happen.

In a Pakistan village, where a volunteer's flood-control project saved crops for the first time in 7 years.

In Tanganyika, where 525 miles of new road are opening up farmland, or in Nigeria, where a 10-year-old learns what the alphabet is. Maybe he can't read yet—but it's a start.

The people of 46 nations have asked for help. They want more Americans. And don't care what they look like. Can they help is what counts.

If you're willing to share the monotony of poverty and can take failure and bounce back, maybe you're the woman or man they want.

It's tough to get into the Peace Corps. You can try by writing to: The Peace Corps, Washington, D.C., 20525.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of one and one-half inch hot-mix asphaltic pavement on six inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Norval Street to Reuben in accordance with plans and specifications in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 25th day of August, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

During one of our two-a-day football practices in college, everything seemed to be going wrong on this particular hot, humid afternoon. The tempers of both players and coaches were becoming quite short. A halfback, attempting a tricky maneuver, fumbled a hand-off and swore loudly.
"Take a lap around the field!" roared the head coach.
As the halfback ran about 20 yards with his head down, the coach again roared, "Better yet, run until you drop!"
The player immediately turned around and came running back. He completely broke up everyone by saying, "I'm sure glad you said that, coach. I never would have made a lap."

Dump Truck Lines Asked To Report

JEFFERSON CITY -- The Missouri Public Service Commission yesterday ordered 298 dump truck lines to file annual reports with the Commission within the next 30 days or face suspension of P.S.C. intrastate authority.

"According to law," said Judge William R. Clark, chairman of the Public Service Commission, "each intrastate common carrier must annually transmit to the commission a written report for the year ending the preceding Dec. 31. The reports are due on or before April.

"The Commission in July notified each of the truck companies included in today's order that their annual reports are overdue. Now, the Commission has given them until Oct. 1. to comply with the law or their authority to operate intrastate will be suspended."

Copies of the Public Service Commission order have been sent to the Missouri State Highway Patrol. The P. S. C. does not have the power of arrest, however, it works closely with the Patrol in matters of truck companies in the state," continued Judge Clark. "all are required to file annual reports. It is not fair that 31.5 per cent get by with negligence when the other 68.5 per cent are following the letter of the law. We intend to correct this situation."

Annual reports filed with the Commission are used to establish rate schedules.

Among truck companies included in the order are: T-13-[illegible], Clyde E. Unger, 239 South [illegible]ust, Dexter; T-13,596, [illegible]rrell Oil Company, Highway [illegible] East, Malone Avenue, Sikes-[illegible]; T-13, 819, Hughie Lape, [illegible]ll City; T-13,837, Virgil Hen-drix, Advance; T-14,205, Clayton Gaines, Route 2, Dexter; T-14,339, Wilford Urhahn, RFD, Benton; and T-21,237, Flaire Excavating and Grading Company, 1805 Kentucky Avenue, Sikeston.

No Fox Hunts For Banker Out West

RENO, Nev. (AP) — As a Philadelphia banker, Stuart B. Webb used to spend his leisure hours fox hunting.

He's found no fox hunting since moving to Nevada to be president of the state's second largest bank.

Webb, at 40, already has filled a heart's desire by becoming top officer of the Nevada Bank of Commerce, with 13 branches throughout the state and assets of $95.6 million.

Webb was born, reared and educated in the East. He moved to Reno in April as administrative vice president and became president July 29.

Why did he come?

"I was looking for a situation that would lead to a top spot in the banking business. This one came to my attention, so I seized it. It's always been my heart's desire to be a bank president."

Webb did have some qualms about moving from the old, established eastern financial world to Nevada, the only state with casino gambling.

Casinos reported gross winnings of more than $290 million during 1964.

Casinos have an excellent cash flow, Webb says. "Their business is cash. Very little credit is involved in it. Ready short-term credit depends on the cash-flow analysis and this comes up quickly."

Nevada has a newer, lustier economy than the East, Webb says.

"As a result, I think the banks extend more credit to a particular customer than would fit the pattern in the East."

But growth has created a greater demand for capital than Nevada banks can meet, so a large amount of building financing still comes from the East, Webb says.

"The attractive thing here is the high interest rate pattern. It's 20 to 25 per cent higher than in the East. We get a standard rate of 7 per cent on loans compared to 5½ per cent in the East."

Webb and his wife have three children, Peter, 15; Nancy, 8, and Scott, 5.

Webb is a native of Washington, D.C., who was graduated from Lehigh University in 1950. He did graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania and Rutgers before joining Provident National Bank in Philadelphia.

He worked his way up and then became an executive of the National Bank of Pottstown, Pa.

Q—What governmental power is there to overrule a Supreme Court decision?

A—Decisions of the Supreme Court cannot be overruled. Decisions can, however, be set aside, by amendment of the Constitution.

Jessel Keeps Busy-Lives Modestly

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—George Jessel was wearing undershorts when he came to the door of his modest home in suburban Reseda.

"When I realized I was home only three days a month, I sold my other houses and moved out here," he explained as he paced through the small rooms. "All I needed was some place where I could change clothes and hang my photographs."

Wallpaper is unnecessary in the Jessel home. Whereever you look there are plaques, trophies, framed letters and photos. He has a picture and autograph of everyone from David Ben-Gurion to Jayne Mansfield. Included are all the recent U.S. presidents, Elizabeth Taylor and most of her husbands.

As he roamed through the gallery, Jessel seemed impatient to don his clothes and fly off to Miami Beach or Haifa to address a luncheon or plant a tree. He took a dip in the pool instead.

He returned in dry trunks and displayed a four-inch scar on his left thigh.

"Picked that up in Viet Nam just recently," he explained. "Snipers. We were coming off a plane and they opened up from across a rice paddy. Also picked up a bug of some kind. Can't shake it."

Jessel sat briefly in a contour chair to explain some of his other activities.

"I'm going to be Jackie Gleason's talent ambassador," he said. "I did two or three shows with him last year and they were so successful that he asked me back for 13 this season. But I'll have something more to do than get up and say, 'Two Jews got on a streetcar. . . .

"I'll be going to 13 different American cities to find talent to appear on Gleason's show. I'll come on and say, 'This is so-and-so from Chicago, and I think she's got a great future as a singer.'

"Then I'll say, 'Two Jews got on a streetcar. . . .' "

Jessel also plans to tour with a new act composed of himself, Sophie Tucker and Ted Lewis.

"We did fantastic business in the East," he remarked. "It's amazing when you consider that Sophie is 82, Ted is 77, and I am 67; together we're older than the United States."

Another enterprise is a public relations firm he heads. Among his clients are Joseph E. Levine's Embassy Pictures, Israel, a distillery and a sausage concern.

"Yes, I'm busy now," he said, "but it was tough for me to get back. You know I quit performing for 11 years when I was producing movies. Regret it? No. My only regret was that I didn't quit after I had made 10 hits. I made eight flops after that, and I was dead.

"Yes, other performers have had their highs and lows. But they didn't go broke in between, as I did. Take Jolson. There was a time before 'The Jolson Story' when he couldn't get work. But he still ended up with six million dollars."

Today in U. S. History

Today is Thursday, Sept. 2, the 245th day of 1965. There are 120 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1864, Union forces under Gen. William T. Sherman occupied Atlanta, Ga.

On this date

In 1850, American author and journalist Eugene Field was born in St. Louis.

In 1916, the Senate passed the Adamson Act, giving the eight-hour day to workers on interstate carriers and providing semipublic control of railroads.

In 1939, Nazi armies which had invaded Poland the day before were advancing rapidly through the Polish corridor and Upper Silesia.

In 1940, the United States transferred 50 over-age destroyers to Britian in exchange for a lease of air and sea bases in Newfoundland and the British West Indies.

In 1945, President Harry S. Truman marked official V-J Day in a nationwide radio address.

Ten years ago — Japanese Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu met with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in New York, 10 years after Japan's surrender.

Five years ago — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived in Finland for trade negotiations.

One year ago — Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh returned to Saigon for meetings which led to his resumption of duties as head of the South Viet Nam government.

Home Show Success

DEXTER -- The annual Jaycee Home Show was a success.

Several thousand people poured through the Armory Friday, Saturday and Sunday to view the many exhibits and compete for the merchant prizes.

They also saw a variety of entertainment, including record-making Norvell Felkts, who entertained with his combo.

"Big winner" for the event was Denny Willis of Bloomfield who went home with the new television set, given by the Jaycees.

A prize of $25 given by the Jaycee Wives was won by Russell Duggins.

Hurricane Builds Fury But Swings Gradually Northward

Kennedy Swam To Cutter

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Boatswain Mate 1.C. Sam E. Harris, 26, described today hauling Sen. Robert F. Kennedy aboard a small Coast Guard cutter in 20-foot seas and 40-mile-an-hour winds off the Massachusetts coast.

Harris had received word at the Castle Hill Coast Guard station that the New York Democratic senator's daughter, Kathleen, 14, was injured—perhaps critically—when her horse fell on her Sunday during a Cape Cod horse show.

The Coast Guard said all efforts to reach Kennedy, seven of his children and friends aboard a yacht, Neris, in Rhode Island Sound failed because the yacht radio had been turned off.

Harris said he and his crew aboard a 30-foot craft finally reached them several miles off shore but the waves were so high he was unable to pull along side.

Kennedy, 39, then decided he would attempt to swim to the cutter despite the waves, occasionally reaching heights of 30 feet. That he was forced to dive from the yacht and make the swim was learned Wednesday night by the Washington Post, and confirmed today by Harris.

He said Kennedy took off his shirt, put on an orange floater vest, and swam for 32 seconds toward the cutter, which was then able to close in on him and pull him aboard.

Wants Bite Put On Dog Owners

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Mailman Eddie Rael wants the City Commission to put the bite on dog owners so their pets will stop putting the bite on letter carriers.

Rael was making his rounds last June when a large dog rushed out of a house and bit him on the leg. Rael had to stay off his feet for eight days.

Rael told the Albuquerque branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers there ought to be a law. He found out there is, but city figures show it's not enforced too closely.

Last year, Rael also discovered, 40 mailmen were bitten in this city of 310,000 population — about double the number from the previous year.

Taylor Given New Job

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson has named Maxwell D. Taylor a special consultant and said he will have "a continuing role in support of the people and government" of South Viet Nam.

This role was not spelled out as the President-Taylor beside him- made his announcement Wednesday night. Nor did Johnson amplify other special assignments he said he will give the former U. S. ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Johnson said Taylor, a former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will be charged with reviewing all government programs aimed at countering Communist advances abroad. And, he said, Taylor will operate when in Washington from the executive office building, across the street from the White House.

Taylor said he thinks Johnson has in mind "a kind of task force assignment."

Henry Cabot Lodge, who succeeded Taylor in Saigon, also served as a special presidential consultant.

Six Accused Of Felonies

NEW MADRID -- Six persons faced felony charges in magistrate court this week with Judge Erie Wright of Portageville presiding.

Milburn Faith, charged with selling liquor without a license, waived his preliminary hearing and was bound over to the circuit court for trial with bond set at $500. He was committed to jail, unable to post bond.

Johnie Lindley, DeLois Johnson, Wilbur Dale Johnson, and Alice Cummings, were each charged with leaving the scene of an accident. All but Miss Cummings had preliminary hearings in Judge Wright's Court. Lindley was held for the circuit court on $2500 bond. Miss Johnson and Wilbur Dale Johnson were ordered to post $500 bonds while awaiting circuit court action. All three posted bond. Alice Cummings waived her preliminary hearing and was held for the higher court on $500 bond. She was unable to post bond and was committed to the county jail.

Robert Cleveland Swoner was held for circuit court with bond set at $500 after waiving his preliminary hearing on a charge

Threat To Florida Easing

MIMAI, Fla. AP -- Hurrican Betsy's winds built up to dangerous 125-mile-an-hour fury today but a gradual northward swing in its forward movement lessened the threat to heavily populated south Florida.

"We're not quite ready yet to take south Florida off the hook," said Gordon Dunn, chief storm forecaster in the Miami Weather Bureau, "but the threat certainly has decreased. The chance that it will affect this area is becoming rather remote."

But he cautioned that south Florida interests should continue to keep in touch with the hurricane advisories for another 24 hours.

Betsy was growing stronger by the hour as it whirled across the Atlantic.

The multi-million-dollar U.S. missile tracking station at Grand Turk Island, on the southern tip of the 750-mile Bahama chain, apparently was spared Betsy's punch.

"Right now, Betsy's a threat to the entire Eastern coast of the United States," said forecaster Raymond Kraft of the Miami Weather Bureau. "But it'll take days before it'll do anything so we can know who to warn."

A new pressure system is pushing across the U.S. midsection and may stall Betsy again in 48 hours or so, Kraft said.

Residents of the thinly populated southeastern Bahamas were warned to prepare for high swells and pounding surf as Betsy whirled about 100 miles north of the Caicos Islands today.

Small Cut In Aid Bill

WASHINGTON AP -- A $3,-285,000,000 foreign aid appropriation bill emerged today from the House Appropriations Commitee with the smallest cut in the aid program's 18-year history.

The $75 million trimmed by the committee from $3.36-billion program authorized by Congress only last week compared with the previous low of $198 million cut from the 1952 program. Last week's bill fixed the limit of new financing for the present fiscal year at a level of about $96 million below what President Johnson requested.

In addition to financing the foreign aid program, the money bill also would provide funds for several other activities, including the Peace Corps, boosting its over-all total of $4,001,453,-000.

Collins To Appear

CARUTHERSVILLE -- James A. Collins, age 36, will appear in magistrate court tomorrow morning to face a charge of murder by rape.

He is charged in the death of Sue Melton, 23, Saturday morning. Her body was taken to Memphis for an autopsy.

Pemiscot County Prosecuting Attorney Sharon Pate said that he expects to get the autopsy report Friday or Saturday.

Steel Talks Progress Is Reported

WASHINGTON AP -- Slight progress was reported today in emergency White House steel negotiations, with President Johnson pushing the talks toward a critical phase.

A source in the negotiations said the steel industry had raised its money offer "a little," but that AFL-CIO United Steelworers Union refused to budge from its last demand.

The last publicly reported industry offer was a 40.6 cent hourly increase in wages and fringe benefits over three years. The last union demand was reportedly 49.8 cents.

Johnson has said both sides must take concessions to reach a settlement.

Four Sentenced For Drinking

One jail term, one year out of town and $12 in fines were handed down by Judge E. R. Schrader in this morning's session of city court. All were for public intoxication.

William Cox, Jr., 223 Edmundson, was sentenced to work 10 days on the city's streets.

Willy Cowby, Poplar Bluff, was sentenced to stay out of Sikeston for no less than one year.

Ray Wilburn, 701 Troy, was fined $6 and costs.

Fred Jordan, Sixth Street, was fined $6 and costs.

Chaffee Man Held For Rape

JACKSON -- Danny Lindy, 28, Chaffee, is charged with forceful rape according to Cape Girardeau County Sheriff John Crites.

Lindy is charged with raping a 17-year-old Jackson girl Aug. 26 near Dutchtown.

Sheriff Crites said Lindy walked into his office this morning at 8 a.m. and gave himself up.

He is in the county jail here.

Crites said that Lindy did not have any previous record of unlawfulness.

King Size Ranch Would Make Excellent Gift

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — This may be the perfect gift for that fellow who has everything: A Nevada ranch the size of Luxembourg.

The ranch of slain millionaire William A. Bartholomae, covering 900 square miles, is up for sale.

Included are cattle and coyotes, green irrigated valleys and desert mountains, 54 horses and a host of buildings. If you like space, it's roughly 66 miles from front door to backgate.

The Bartholomae ranch is a combine of 16 separate spreads scattered over parts of three counties in east central Nevada. Heart of the empire is the Fish Creek Ranch about 20 miles south of Eureka.

There are 20 buildings at the Fish Creek Ranch including a cottage, office, kitchen-recreation hall, bunk house, saddle and tack room and barns. Most of the other ranch units have livable homes, too. One suitable for a hunting lodge is on the Indian Creek Ranch 20 miles southwest of Fish Creek.

The Bartholomae properties cover 25 townships, but only 9,-277 acres are deeded land. As with most large western ranches, the rest is leased from the federal government.

The price tag for all this? That's indefinite until sealed bids are opened in private sale Tuesday in Carson City.

But the outfit has been appraised at $1,876,313.90, including land and leases, grazing rights, the horses, 2,-220 head of Hereford cattle and $9,535 worth of vehicles.

Clears Labor Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sharply controversial bill to repeal Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley law has cleared the Senate Labor Committee by a bigger margin than its sponsors expected.

The panel approved the measure 12-3 Wednesday but agreed to withhold it from the Senate until late next week so its foes could write their views on it.

The White House said after the vote that President Johnson expects final congressional action before adjournament. The House passed the bill 221-203 in July.

Senate sponsors say they have the votes to pass the bill but expect a two-week floor battle. The big fight will be over amendments to restrict union activities.

Section 14B allows states to ban labor contracts that compel workers to join a union. Nineteen states have enacted such bans.

Two Will Aid College

LILBOURN -- Kenneth H. Bell, Lilbourn rural, and William B. Lynn, Sikeston have been appointed to the president's advisory council of Harding College in Searcy Ark.

Bell has been a farmer 18 years in the Hurricane Ridge community between Lilbourn and Sikeston. He is serving on the advisory board of York Christian college, York, Neb.

Lynn is president of the Republic States Life Insurance Company in Sikeston. He is president of the board of trustees of the Crowley's Ridge college in Paragould, Ark.

Paroled Youth Held For Theft

Terry Wayne Travis, route four, was charged this morning by Stoddard county authorities with car theft.

Travis, 19, is charged with stealing a 1959 Ford owned by George Smith, route one, last night.

Smith was enroute to Morehouse to work in another car this morning at 6:30 a.m. when he saw Travis in his automobile. He stopped the car and jerked Travis out. Travis escaped on foot in Morehouse.

The highway patrol went to the home of a brother of Travis near Morehouse and arrested him. He was taken to the Stoddard county jail in Bloomfield.

Young Travis is out on parole from the Algoa reform school in Jefferson City. He was serving two years for car theft. He has been on parole one month.

His parents live at Canalou.

Firemen answered 18 alarms during August and were paid $223.

Three Bills Go In Drive To Adjourn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressional leaders have decided to jettison minimum wage, congressional redistricting and unemployment compensation legislation in their drive for a late September adjournment.

This decision, reflected in Senate Democratic Policy Committee action, apparently has at least the tacit approval of President Johnson. The three major measures to be pigeonholed will remain alive for action in 1966.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said in an interview the party policy committee has called for Senate action on a half dozen major measures before the current session ends. These include the $4.7-billion higher education aid bill on which Senate debate begins today.

Other measures the committee wants pushed to a vote, Mansfield said, include bills to repeal state union shop bans, revise the farm subsidy system, abolish the national origin quotas on immigration, step up vocational rehabilitation and beautify highways. Included also are the regular money bills, with the always controversial foreign aid bill among them.

A proposed pay increase for federal civilian employes was not on the priority list.

Astronauts Take Break

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 5 astronauts fly home to Houston, Tex., today for a joyous, but brief, reunion with their families.

L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr. are scheduled to leave by plane at 1 p.m. (EST) for the three-hour flight to Ellington Air Force Base, near Houston.

Their departure will end four days of intensive debriefings here on their record eight-day orbital journey.

Technical and medical experts have wrung everything possible out of the astronauts in general terms. At the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, other specialists will keep them in seclusion another week, probing various aspects of the mission in deeper detail.

But before being spirited away, the astronauts were to be reunited with their wives and children.

$4,020 City Tax Take

Ronald Lee, city collector, reports that the city accumulated $4,020.48 during August.

Merchants paid $2,154.41, the largest portion; liquor taxes were $320, and dog taxes $56 for a total of $2,530.41 for merchants and manufacturers.

Personal back tax collections were $806, real estate back tax collections totaled $392.32; $1,-089.69 in miscellaneous collections were made.

Four Treated

Four persons were treated in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital Wednesday.

Edward H. Berry, Sr., Sikeston, stuck wire in finger; John Haley, Anniston, car accident; Finley Williams, East Prairie, car accident; Doug White, stung by wasp, Sikeston.

Bribery Incident Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee today called on the State Department and Central Intelligence Agency to explain why a formal denial of a $3-million bribery incident that took place in Singapore in 1960 backfired to the embarrassment of the U.S. government.

Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on the Far East, said closed hearings will be held after the Labor Day recess to obtain an explanation from responsible officials on bribery allegations brought by Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew.

Lee threatened to name an American presidential intermediary of high rank who he said offered him the bribe in 1960 if he would not reveal the arrest of an American CIA agent trapped trying to buy information from Singapore secret agents.

State Department officials were taken aback Tuesday when Lee released a letter from Secretary of State Dean Rusk which apologized for improper activities by American agents and promised disciplinary action.

Zablocki said it was "most unfortunate" that the State Department had issued a formal denial of the bribery charge on Tuesday and then had itself reversed on Wednesday.

"It is not too difficult to look back to what action Prime Minister Lee was talking about," Zablocki said. He refused to elaborate.

State Department officials insisted that only Rusk and the Central Intelligence Agency knew of the letter to Lee. Zablocki indicated that Congress had been filled in on the incident when it occurred toward the close of the Eisenhower administration.

Car Stalls, 2 Hurt In Crash

A stalled car in the middle of route UU, three miles southeast of Charleston at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday caused a crash that injured two persons, the state highway patrol reported.

The 1963 Ford, owned by Joe Galemore, Charleston, was struck by a 1964 Pontiac, driven by John Haley, 44, Anniston. Galemore had tried to flag traffic.

Haley was cut on the head, and a passenger in his car, Sammy Babb, 17, Charleston, had a shoulder injury. Both were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Other Wednesday mishaps reported by the patrol:

Eva Cross, 37, East Prairie, a passenger in a GMC truck driven by James W. Cross, 47, East Prairie, was cut on her head in a two-truck collision. The accident occurred at 3:40 p.m. on route 102, three miles east of East Prairie.

Cross was making a left turn, driven by Barry R. Hill, 22, Matthews, attempted to pass him.

No one was injured in a two-car crash at 3:10 p.m., five miles south of Sikeston on highway 61, when a 1957 Dodge driven by Rex Hutton, 45, New Madrid, slowed behind a school bus. The car was struck in the rear by a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Detta Johnston, 20, East Prairie, who was arrested for careless and imprudent driving, the state patrol reported.

A 1964 Chevrolet driven east by Grover L. Chapman, 32, Wyatt, was making a left turn when it was struck by a 1962 Chevrolet, driven by Walter Long, 67, Bardwell, Ky. None was hurt in the collision at 3:25 p.m. five miles east of Charleston on highway 60.

Suspected Viet Cong Area Attacked

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP Air Force B52 bombers attacked a suspected Viet Cong area today, a U. S. military spokesman said, with a raid that rattled windows in downtown Saigon, 20 miles from the target.

The area hit was north-northwest of Saigon in the Ho Bo woods in Dinh Dnong Province, the spokesman said.

Ginger Rogers Sued

NEW YORK AP -- Actress Ginger Rogers has been named in two civil suits seeking more than $64,000. The suits were filed by a lawyer and a public relations man in connection with fees and expenses for a proposed film operation in Jamaica, West Indies.

Dr. Albert Schweitzer, 90, Lies Gravely Ill

LIBREVILLE, Gabon (AP)—Dr. Albert Schweitzer, 90, lies gravely ill today in his jungle hospital, in which he has treated thousands of Africans.

The old doctor whose name is legend throughout the world, was stricken by fatigue Sunday and has not left his bed since.

Reports reaching the capital from the 100-mile distant jungle hospital were sketchy. Close associates refused to say anything or speculate on Dr. Schweitzer's chances of recovery.

"He is ill, very ill. We are all praying," a member of Dr. Schweizer's staff told an acquaintance over the telephone linking the island of Lambarene with the capital.

The hospital itself, located across the muddy Ogooue River from Lambarene Island, has no telephone. Dr. Schweitzer refused to install one.

Reports of his illness trickled from the hospital to Lambarene by staff members traveling across the river in dugout canoes.

In recent years, Dr. Schweitzer left most medical chores to other doctors.

But he sat every day at his battered desk in the hut housing the hospital's central pharmacy, where drugs were given out to ailing Africans.

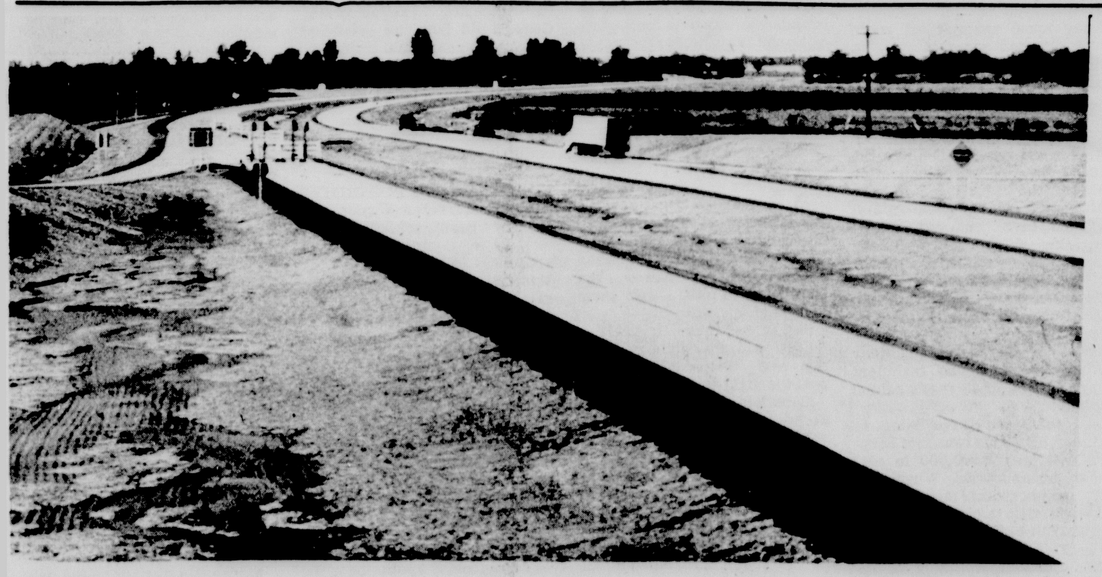

"I feel admirably well," he told this reporter last Jan. 14 on his 90th birthday.

According to reports avilable here, Dr. Schweitzer had kept up his daily routine, dictating answers to numerous letters, studying plans for new construction at the hospital and receiving visitors.

A report said the doctor had lost consciousness Wednesday, but recovered slightly toward evening.

In the capital, Africans were philosophical about the man who had devoted his life to Africa and became the center of controversy.

"He is old, very old," was a comment often heard here.

INTERSTATE 55 spreads further south. The new four-lane concrete road has been opened from Sikeston to Highway 80, one and one-half miles east of Matthews Junction. This is an eight-mile stretch. This picture was taken from the highway 80 overpass looking north.

THE HIGHWAY 61 OVERPASS over Interstate 55, under construction, has been opened four miles north of New Madrid. It eliminates the first of two detours between Sikeston and New Madrid on highway 61. A portion of the grading of I-55 south of the overpass is in the center. At the extreme right is a portion of the old paved detour, which formerly was used.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Thursday, September 2 Fan demands quarter back after Harvard-Yale game. 1888

* * *

OH, NO--NOT YOU

For many the Labor Day week end will begin tomorrow. For most it will conclude late Monday.

But according to an estimate by one of the national insurance companies it will be life, not just a playful holiday, that ends for at least 800 Americans.

Not you, of course. It couldn't happen to you. You drive carefully, never get in a hurry, always keep a close eye on the other driver, observe all the laws, abide by the rules of safety and courtesy, keep wide awake, never have a drink before driving, and never become distracted by your passengers. Furthermore, you always say a prayer, cross your fingers and check to see if the rabbit foot is in your pocket before you get in your auto.

And if that isn't enough, if everything goes wrong and some fool driver in another car causes your death, you're at least well-insured so that your wife and children will be well taken care of -- if they aren't killed, too.

We know you get tired of having death and injury statistics quoted to you at the onset of these long holiday weekends. Why spoil your fun worrying?

Well, assume then that the 365,000 persons who will be injured in auto accidents between midnight tonight and midnight Monday couldn't possibly include you or your family. Assume that you won't be among the 2,500 who will be permanently disabled in grinding smash-ups and tire-screeching collisions. And certainly you won't be one of the 800 or so who are killed.

And then don't get into an automobile once during that 72-hour period and maybe you'll be right.

* * *

The hand that lifts the cup that cheers, should not be used to shift the gears.

* * *

Most people if they are honest will tell you that circumstances played an important role in their careers.

It is fine to have ambition and wonderful to see it fulfilled but most people learn how to roll with the punches and adjust to conditions and to accept the consequences.

Gallatin is a small northwest Missouri town which is off the beaten path as far as major highway travel is concerned. But the fellow who never heard of Gallatin doesn't like to eat.

Mrs. McDonald's Tearoom has put Gallatin on the map. The inspired food of Virginia McDonald, the proprietor, is beautiful to the eye and even more pleasing to the taste buds.

Yet Mrs. McDonald did not long aspire to this kind of fame.

She started the tearoom almost a third of a century ago when a lengthy illness left her and her husband, Charles, with debts of more than $8,000. She decided to meet the financial crisis by opening a restaurant.

A banker told her it couldn't be done. Everything was against it. Gallatin was isolated and too far from any metropolitan center.

Her husband built the tearoom structure, crude at first. The start was modest.

Mrs. McDonald's cooking skill fulfilled a promise made by her mother.

"My mother was an aristocrat in the south and never knew how to cook or cared until after the Civil War," Mrs. McDonald recalls. "She vowed then that all of her daughters would know their way around a kitchen."

Just how well she succeeded is evidenced by Mrs. McDonald's invitation by the late Duncan Hines to be his guest when he honored the 10 top restaurant people in the nation.

Mrs. McDonald's ability as a cook was initially advertised by traveling salesman talk, later by Hines and others who spread across the nation word about good places to eat, including former Gov. Arthur Hyde.

Once when he visited Virginia, Hyde commented that Mrs. McDonald's black raspberry ice, a tearoom speciality, "should be reverently held in the hands and inhaled as you would a fragrant rose."

The success of Mrs. McDonald's Tearoom is an amazing one in the best American tradition. Everything was against her. She had no long-held ambition to succeed in business. Her career was born of necessity during an unexpected emergency.

People liked her food well enough to drive off main traveled routes to stop and eat in her tearoom. Residents of Kansas City and St. Joseph drove to her. She didn't have to bring her restaurant to them.

Unquestionably she filled a need. Smart merchants know that they can't sell rubbers and raincoats unless it is raining or galoshes unless there is snow. People suddenly get hungry at the mere mention of the word "Gallatin." Those who have eaten at the tearoom will instinctively drive toward it if they come within 50 miles.

By her skill Mrs. McDonald shaped her own destiny. She did it without headstart, Medicare or the anti-poverty program.

We hope that this security conscious generation, nurtured on federal aid, will please take note.

A. L. Waller says "Is it any wonder that we have inflation --- the silly things people spend their money on these days."

There has been no announcement in modern times more deserving of Sikeston civic solidarity than that this city has the opportunity to obtain commercial aviation service.

The community should get solidly behind the efforts of Robert Matthews, former president of the Sikeston Industrial Development Corporation, and others, to make this dream come true.

In its potential this gives the community the chance to join the air age and may be of greater ultimate significance than Sikeston's location on two interstate highways.

If Sikeston can furnish sufficient patronage to keep any commercial air service in operation it should be able to do so as the mid-point on a St. Louis to Memphis route.

Success barometers may be found in the heavy travel on bus schedules now between these two cities, frequency of the service, passenger car travel between the cities as well as air travel by Sikeston area residents to St. Louis and Memphis from Cape Girardeau and Paducah. These factors all point to the need for the service.

Airport improvements are needed as well as five passengers per flight to assure continued service.

These requirements and all other reasonable ones should be met by an eager citizenry determined to get and keep Ozark Airlines flying in and out of Sikeston.

This city is on the threshold of a new dimension in its steady, continued growth and progress. Let's get our shoulders to the wing and join the air age.

MR. JOHNSON'S LABOR MESSAGE

Only 19 states, none of them highly industrialized, have adopted so-call "right to work" laws. One of them is Mr. Johnson's own state of Texas. Six other states that adopted laws subsequently repealed them. Of the six, only one, Indiana, is a highly industrialized state. Its law, passed in 1957, was repealed last January.

The experience of the states, it seems to us, is an argument for settling the issue on a state basis.

Slyly, the boy said, "My hat would slide down over my eyes.

ABOUT AVERAGE

An inquisitive visitor in a small village began questioning a native. He wanted to know everything about the community, its elevation, about sea level, politics, religious tendencies, bank clearances, and so on. Finally, he asked, "What is the death rate in this town?" To which the somewhat bored native replied: "About one to a person."

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

Some like to take the wheel in our journey through life, while others prefer to go along as passengers.

It seems to me that the role of the passenger is an important one and has its advantages.

The function of the passenger is to serve as the audience for the actors of this world.

The actors are the people who drive cars, sail boats, buy houses in the country. They surround themselves with expensive toys, and like any child with a new toy they are never quite happy alone.

They must show their toys off to somebody. That is where the passenger comes in. His job is to praise the new boys and the skill with which their owner plays with them.

That is his whole job, and he must do nothing more if he is a conscientious passenger. Let me illustrate.

Recently I accepted an invitation to go for a cruise with a man who had just bought an expensive sailboat. There were just the two of us aboard.

During those four days I never asked to steer the boat or offered to reef or unreef a sail or perform a helpful chore of any kind.

At the end of our cruise my host said to me with that faint note of hostility that creeps ultimately into every host's voice: "You know, you're really just an eternal passenger. You've made a career of being helpless. You don't know how to do anything, and what is more you don't even want to learn how to do anything."

His ingratitude rather annoyed me. So I endeavored to set him straight.

"You are implying that there is no difference between a passenger and a barnacle," I told him. "But there is. A barnacle is merely an inactive hitchhiker.

"But as a passenger I've been quite useful to you. For four days I've praised your boat's performance, admired your skill at the tiller, listened to your woes, agreed that you were a better man than your enemies, and refrained from giving you advice of any kind.

"Believe me, I have been of far more service to you than if I had merely pitched in and helped you fight winds and waves. You can rent somebody to do those things for you. What I have done for you is beyond price."

Well, after thinking it over, my host admitted there was some merit in what I had said. Anyway, he rowed me ashore, bought me a fast beer and said I would have to take a cruise with him again sometime—maybe next year, maybe the year after.

My son, Jeff, who is almost 7 , has a bad habit of swearing --usually at the very worst time. I tried every known method of curing him, but with no success. He'd always wanted a rabbit, so I decided to make a deal. I told him I would buy him one if he promised to cut out all his swearing. The bargain was made and he got his rabbit.

But it was too good to be true. We had some relatives over at the house last Sunday, and my elderly aunt said to Jeff: "I hear you have a rabbit, dear, Wouldn't you like to show it to us?"

"I sure would," said Jeff, and he rushed out to the garden to get his pet. Just as he brought it into the living room, the rabbit began to give birth to an enormous litter of baby rabbits. Jeff watched in amazement for a moment, then dropped the mother rabbit to the floor and screamed: "Holy smoke, the damn thing is falling apart!"

WOODEN NICKELS ILLEGAL, BICENTENNIAL IS TOLD

CONCORD, N. H., July 17 (AP) Wooden nickles issued as promotion for a bicentennial celebration are illegal tender, the Treasury Department warned the Concord Police Benevolent Association. They are not legal tender and the use for purchases violates federal law regulating substitutes for currency, the Treasury said.

The bicentennial committee told 50 merchants to revise posters saying "We give or take wooden nickels" and said none of the coins should be accepted in payment.

Meanwhile the police department said some persons had been mailing in the wooden nickels to pay parking fines and that they were becoming collectors' items "worth 15 or 20 cents."

CHRONIC CRIMINALS

The rate of serious crimes in the United States is increasing six times as fast as the population growth, according to the FBI. On the average, a murder, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, "burglary, serious larceny, or automobile theft occurs every 15 minutes in the United States. The annual increase in these serious crimes is 11 per cent.

No wonder the president of the American Bar Association has warned, "The rising crime rate in the United States is the nation's number one domestic problem."

But an important added point is that more than 95 per cent of our young people do not become involved in crime. Less than five per cent of the youngsters are represented in 48 per cent of the arrests for serious crime!

Of all persons arrested last year, 76% were repeaters. The result is a steady production of chronic criminals.

Our courts have much to answer for in this connection. Too many judges seem to have forgotten that the purpose of a trial is to find out the truth as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant. Many ignore the fact that our criminal laws are enacted primarily for the protection of society rather than for the protection of criminals.

The FBI statistics show that young people are responsible for a greatly disproportionate share of serious crime. Young people were involved in 48% of the arrests for serious crime last year. If the young become interested in good and evil to the extent they would vocally debate the solutions most desired, crime would lose its luster. HLH

Communists Easily Find $100,000 For Summer Project Across U. S.

New York -- Nothing on the outside of the shabby, soot-darkened gray building -- or in its dingy, barren interior -- at 23 W. 26 St. insinuates that it had a paymaster who can quite easily put his hands on tens of thousands of dollars in cold cash.

But it does have a paymaster. This is the national headquarters of the Communist party U. S. A., and in the past 10 weeks he has been providing more than $7,500 in cash weekly to a series of youthful cadres in 11 major cities.

They total some 80 young people. Their assignment -- after two weeks of rigid, secret training -- has been to disperse, set up special employment clubs and operate under a slogan of "One man, One job."

Now in its final summertime stage, it was a prize project for a party still sensitive over the scolding by Moscow mentors who upbraided the American Communists for aging too fast and developing their youth cadres too slowly.

Like all dialectic gymnastics, this project had two objectives --major and minor. First, money was made available so the American Communist party could revitalize its operations by recruiting and training new youthful leaders. Second: To set up bases from which to infiltrate school systems, municipal social services, big industrial plants and defense factories--inside all of which the party could begin ultrasonic "agi-prop" work. This stands for agitation propaganda--meaning an attempt to develop the mind set of millions of workers in the hope that disruptive demonstrations could be launched and slow-downs encouraged in the tense "war" months to come.

Orders for the 1965 Communist Party project came down early this year. Swiftly between 75 and 80 young men and women --two of them from Puerto Rico --were recruited, processed and screened to make certain that disruptive Mao-ists did not infiltrate.

Then they were flown from the island, from the West coast and from the southern and mid-west cities to points near New Jersey. Then, by car and bus to Camp Midvale, New Jersey. There they were isolated for two weeks while they got the line from Mikhail Suslov, member of the Soviet Praesidium--but not in person, of course.

In person, there was Hyman Lumer, one of fifty men and women charged by the Subversive Activities Control Board with being dominated by Moscow. After the fortnight, Lumer, who is the Communists' national education director, told a friend that the assembly of these young people from all over the country had created a feeling of strength and power and greater respect for the Communist party.

The mere fact, explained Lumer, that such a group of promising students had been brought together under one roof for two weeks last June "refutes" those who are prone to consider the Communist party in the U. S. as an aging group with little or no future.

After the training session the youths were dispersed to the 11 cities the Communists consider most strategically located for propaganda and infiltration action.

The first cadres sped to Detroit and Chicago. Then to Philadelphia and Richmond, Va. Some stayed in New York. Others flew to St. Louis, Portland, Ore. Others drove to Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Boston.

There they set up actual club houses under full time hosts and hostesses or rented small apartments.

Where they could find a store front or cellar club room, they provided coffee, doughnuts, sandwiches, female companionship with or without chaperones, and free dances.

But club house or not, they did well by their pre-summer Communist instructors who had included Gus Hall, an old hand at organizing in the steel areas. They sought out job openings. They found unemployed youth and directed some of them to the shops. They linked their slogan of "One Man, One Job" to "Jobs, Peace and Equality."

Now the cadres are winding up their summertime project. But they are leaving behind the framework of an organization among the industrial youth--especially in Mid-west cities.

From their summer school training at the New Jersey camp, they carried to the 11 cities fresh ideas and organization techniques to revive the local Communist units in old, established areas. The youngsters "sparked up" the older party people whose turbulent days are 30 to 40 years behind them.

All this took large sums of money. But this was not lacking. At least $100,000 in cold cash was supplied. Where did it come from? Some folks thought that Moscow gold had gone out of style.

Is it unreasonable to ask that the Communists explain the source of their funds? The rest of the citizenry has to report. Or are we second-class citizens unequal with the Communists under the law?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Swedish intelligence has intercepted a secret Soviet plan, as daring as it is ominous, to bring military pressure on the Scandinavian countries to sign over railroad rights across Finland; Sweden and Norway all the way to the Atlantic.

The Russians want a Concession to use the Great Northern Railway that runs through Lap Country from Vartsila on the Soviet - Finnish border to the seaport of Narvik on the Norwegian Coast. This would give the Russians an ice-free outlet to the Atlantic.

The Swedes learned about the plan from a series of coded communications that they picked up from Soviet military intelligence. They broke the code, translated the messages, and tipped off the United States what they had uncovered.

Whether the bold scheme is merely a contingency plan, to be used in case of increased East-West tension, isn't clear. It could also be a clever hoax, deliberately planted on the Swedes in order to keep them off balance.

There has been disturbing evidence, however, of a Soviet build - up opposite the Scandinavian countries.

WHEN DO WE GO HOME?

In the sweltering summer the biggest issue on Capitol Hill becomes the adjournment date. On this the two leaders of Congress disagree.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, yearning to get back to his native Montana, is driving to close down Congress by Labor Day.

Speaker John McCormack, on the other hand, insists that it will be impossible to finish the legislative workload until late September or even early October.

Mansfield at one time told House leaders huffily that he intended to adjourn the Senate on Labor Day whether the House goes out of session or not. House leaders retorted that they will stay in session until their work is done, and let the Senate go home.

From the White House, President Johnson is applying all the pressure he can bring to bear upon the leaders to get several key bills out of the way before they go home. He called in Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen the other day to plead with them to pass his priority bills.

He wants them to take up federal aid for higher education next, then the bill to repeal the right-to-work laws.

Mansfield warned that the Senate could never adjourn on schedule if the right-to-work repeal has to be passed. He pointed out that the opponents are ready to talk the bill to death.

The President said he had made a commitment to labor to push the bill, and asked Mansfield to help him keep the commitment.

Dirksen, however, made it clear that the President could expect no cooperation from the Republicans on ending the right-to-work law.

"I am not only going to fight this," he told the President, "I am going to lead the fight."

It remains to be seen whether Congress will be able to get out of town on schedule. Meanwhile it is growing as hot inside the Capitol building as on the outside.

UNWIELDLY POST OFFICE

Larry O'Brien, the last of the Irish Mafia to leave the White House, was appointed Postmaster General for two reasons; First he is an astute politician with a good knowledge of Capitol Hill and the ability to make wise decisions.

Second, O'Brien was the most loyal to LBJ of the men inherited from the Kennedy entourage. Some of the Kennedy staff began dropping like flies immediately after the assassination. Arthur Schlesinger was the first to go; then Ted Sorenson, Pierre Salinger, Ken O'Donnell and so on. The new President was genuinely anxious to have them stay, but one by one they departed -- with the exception of O'Brien and McGeorge Bundy, the latter being the efficient liaison expert between the White House and the State and Defense Departments.

The President has confidence in and feels gratitude toward both, and the time will doubtless come when Bundy also will get his reward.

If O'Brien is smart -- and he usually is -- he will recognize that what the Post Office needs is another Bob McNamara -- a high level efficiency executive who will shake up the Post Office Department in the same way McNamara has shaken the deadwood out of Defense.

With the terrific population increase of the United States and the failure of the Post Office to automate, ex-Postmaster General Ed Day has predicted that by the year 2000 every other person in the United States will be kept busy handling the mail. Only successful step toward postal reform was the new automatic Post Offices installed by Assistant Postmaster General Tyler Abell.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

Water shortages across the country have stimulated new interest in cloud seeding, or artificial nucleation as the scientists call it, as a means of raising the river levels and filling the reservoirs. Rain is induced by playing plumes of silver iodide smoke on the billows of rain clouds. Such seeding has increased rainfall as much as 75 per cent in some localities. Others claim that it takes rain away from their localities . . . The big auto manufacturers, who have fought against every attempt to establish safety standards, are now opposing another safety suggestion. Experts have urged that dashboard knobs be given different shapes to identify their function and be located in the same places on all cars. This would permit a driver to get behind the wheel of any car and immediately recognize each knob's function by its placement and appearance. But the manufacturers prefer to design the knobs for style rather than safety . . . As one means of beautifying America, President Johnson is considering special tax incentives for electric and telephone companies which will agree to lay their lines underground. This would cost the companies more than stringing lines from unsightly poles, but a tax break could make it worth their while. . . One of the unsung heroes of Congress this year has been Rep. John Blatnik, D-Minn., who steered the glamorless but important Public Works and Economic Development Act through the House.

THE STEEL TALKS

The most important fact which Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Under Secretary of Commerce Leroy Collins reported to the White House from their steel talks in Pittsburgh was that the United Steel Workers had a much better case than the steel industry.

Both fact- finders were impressed with the calm and reasonable presentation made by I. W. Abel, new President of the Steel Workers Union.

The Union, they concluded, was not asking for as much as given to aluminum workers by the Aluminum Industry, or as much as Walter Reuther got for the United Auto Workers, or the new wage scale of the Aerospace Workers.

Steel Union leaders pointed out to Morse and Collins -- and this was relayed in turn to the President -- that Reuther got considerably more than 3.2 per cent increase which is supposed to be the amount the President's Council of Economic Advisers has set as allowable without disturbing price structure and causing inflation.

In addition, Reuther got a cost-of-living escalation clause in the Auto Workers contract which already has given the Auto Workers an increase of eight cents an hour.

The two presidential fact-finders learned that new Union Chief Abel was bitter at ex-President Dave McDonald for giving away this escalation clause in return for the paying of insurance premiums by employers. The latter is chicken feed compared with the benefits of escalation.

Morse and Collins recommended to the President that he offer both the Union and the Industry a package, and that it would have to be worth considerably more than 3.2 per cent.

"If I had to name six of the top labor leaders of the country," Sen. Morse, one time head of the War Labor Board, told President Johnson, "I would put Abel high on the list."

Morse and Collins were also impressed with the ability of Federal Mediator William Simkin; reported that he knew the steel case backward and forward.

Janie Elizabeth Springs Is Wed To Samuel J. Potashnick

First Methodist Church was the scene Saturday, August twenty-eighth, at two o'clock in the afternoon of the wedding of Miss Janie Elizabeth Springs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Springs, and Samuel J. Potashnick, son of Ralph Potashnick of Roseville, Calif., and Mrs. Ralph Potashnick of Sikeston.

The Reverend Joseph Wagner performed the double ring ceremony before a setting of a white prie dieu flanked with baskets of white gladioli and brass candelabra. A large candelabra stood behind the altar. Two bouquets decorated the altar table. A white bridal carpet completed the church decorations.

Miss Neva Mae Taylor, organist, provided the wedding music and accopanied Miss Patty McMullin, soloist, who sang, "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length silk gras de londres gown. The empire bodice was fashioned with a demure scoop neckline and long sleeves that came to points over the hands. Tiny covered buttons decorated the sleeves. Her headpiece was an elbow-length veil of silk illusion attached to a crown of re-embroidered lace with crystals and seed pearls.

She carried a bouquet of white vanda orchids and stephanotis on a lace covered Bible.

Mrs. Jim Cox was matron of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Frances Potashnick, twin sister of the bride. Mrs. Dave Garner was candlelighter.

Miss Jane Ella Yount, Miss Lynette Caskey, Mrs. Larry Steward and Miss Suzanne Gilmore assisted in serving at the reception. Mrs. Charles David Springs assisted the hostess. Chuck and Chris Springs, nephews of the bride, passed out little rice bags at the reception. They were in white baskets trimmed with white bows and lilies of the valley. The rice bags were white and coral net.

Following the reception, the new Mr. and Mrs. Potashnick took a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For traveling, Mrs. Potashnick chose a navy and beige cotton A-line skirt topped with a beige sleeveless dress. The jacket has a trimming of the navy material.

Koufax, Drysdale Lose; Reds In First

Bucs Hand Bums Losses; Hopeful Cards Rip Cubs 9-0

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Like Humpty Dumpty, the Los Angeles Dodgers have had a great fall, and now they must wonder whether Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale can put them back together again.

Koufax and Drysdale, the winningest pair of pitchers on any team in the majors, were on the bottom of the fall Wednesday night as the charging Pittsburgh Pirates dropped them in a doubleheader 3-2 in 11 innings and 2-1.

The double defeat tumbled the Dodgers out of the National League lead because at the same time Cincinnati swept a pair from Milwaukee 7-6 and 2-0. That put the Reds on top, one percentage point ahead of the Dodgers.

The San Francisco Giants, who were rained out at Philadelphia, are one-half game back, the Braves are in fourth, two behind, and the fifth-place Pirates — with 10 victories in their last 11 games — trail by only 2½ games.

In other NL games, St. Louis trounced Chicago 9-0 and New York defeated Houston 4-1 before bowing 8-5.

In the American League, Minnesota beat Detroit 5-2, Kansas City nipped Cleveland 4-3, Washington stopped Boston 8-7 and Los Angeles edged New York 7-6 in 12 innings. Rain washed out Chicago at Baltimore.

En route to his latest loss, Koufax broke his 1963 National League season strikeout record of 306 by fanning 10 Pirates and bringing his total to 313, just 35 away from Bob Feller's all-time mark.

The Pirates won the game in the 11th on a walk to Willie Stargell and Jim Pagliaroni's double. In the nightcap, Bill Virdon, who tied the contest with a sixth-inning homer, singled in the eighth, raced to third on Roberto Clemente's single and scored as Maury Wills fumbled Manny Mota's grounder.

The Reds won the opener with two runs in the ninth when rookie Tommy Helms tripled home Marty Keough and scored as Tom Harper singled. Deron Johnson drove in three Cincinnati runs with two homers while Mack Jones and Hank Aaron knocked in a pair for the Braves.

Jim Maloney, now 17-6, pitched a five-hitter and struck out 12 in the nightcap. Tony Perez supported Maloney with a second-inning homer.

Tracy Stallard posted the Cardinals' second straight shutout over the Cubs with a three-hitter. Curt Flood knocked in two runs while Bob Skinner homered.

Joe Christopher's two-run triple in the eighth helped New York's Al Jackson to his seventh victory against 17 defeats in the opener. The Astros came back for the second-game victory as Rusty Staub hit a three-run homer and Jim Gentile drove in three runs with two homers.

The St. Louis Cardinals are proving to be a pretty live corpse.

Eight games out of first place with only 28 to play, and with six teams ahead of them, the Cardinals appear certain to give up their World Championship flag.

They blanked the Cubs for the second straight day Wednesday, 9-0, in Chicago for their seventh vicotry in nine games to bring them to the .500 mark.

Tracy Stallard extended St. Louis' scoreless pitching to 22 innings, cutting off the Cubs on three hits. It was only the third complete game for Stallard, now 9-6.

The righthander walked only one, struck out eight and retired 14 straight hitters at one stretch.

Bob Skinner gave him the run he needed with his fifth homer in the second. The score was 4-0 when the Cardinals wrapped up the contest with five markers in the eighth.

The teams conclude the three-game set today with Ray Washburn 8-10 of the Cards scheduled to face Bob Hendley 1-2.

Redleg's Worries Helped By Helms

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds were back on top of the National League today but their mathematical margin-- .001 -- was far smaller than Manager Dick Sisler's worries.

"Billy McCool and Ted Davidson just can't continue to work as often as they have been," Sisler said after his Reds took two games from Milwaukee, 7-6 and 2-0, to move up past Los Angeles.

"Who do I have to give them help? A question. Maybe someone will fill the gap. I just couldn't tell you who it might be now because I don't know."

Both the young relief pitchers worked in the first game where the Reds came from behind to win, and McCool picked up the victory, evening his record at 8-8. Jim Maloney, now 17-6, shut out the Braves on five hits in the second game.

"Then there is Leo Cardenas," Sisler continued. "He missed his first game of the season. . . he is having eye trouble. Leo told me both of his eyes are watering and cannot see the ball very well.

"I hope the doctor finds the trouble quickly."

Cardenas was out of the Reds' line-up at shortstop for the first time in 131 games in the nightcap, but the Reds hardly missed him because of their newest sensation, a 24-year-old infielder, Tommy Helms, who was called up from San Diego earlier in the week.

Helms tied the first game with a pinch triple in the ninth inning and came through with a single, a double and a triple in the second game.

IN KNEED—The San Francisco Giants, making a strong bid for the National League pennant, can use the power of firstbaseman Orlando Cepeda who seems to have recovered from a knee injury and is ready to play regularly.

Roseboro Files $110,000 Suit Against Marichal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Catcher John Roseboro of the Los Angeles Dodgers has filed a $110,000 damage suit against the San Francisco Giants and their star pitcher, Juan Marichal, who clubbed Roseboro with a baseball bat Aug. 22

Roseboro's attorney, Leo Branton Jr., said in Los Angeles that a complaint has been filed in Superior Court against Marichal and the Giants seeking $10,000 in general damages and $100,000 in exemplary and punitive damages.

He said the suit avers that Marichal "did without provocation commit assault and battery against the plaintiff with a deadly weapon, that Roseboro was severely injured and was caused pain and suffering."

Roseboro, in Pittsburgh for the Dodgers' series against the Pirates, said in a statement Wednesday night he brought suit for "the unprovoked attack made upon me at Candlestick Park. . ."Marichal opened a two-inch gash on Roseboro's head in the explosive brawl. Roseboro said, "My decision to take this action is due not only to the brutal attack upon my person, but, just as important, is due to the fact that some severe action should be taken against a man who not only set a bad example for millions of baseball fans throughout the world, but apparently from recent statements has attempted to defend and justify his outrageous conduct."

Marichal, in Philadelphia where his first scheduled start since the incident was washed out, declined comment except to say, "I wish I had that much, half that much, quarter that much."

President Warren Giles of the National League suspended Marichal for eight playing days, fined him $1,750 and ordered him to stay out of Los Angeles for the Giants' last trip there Monday and Tuesday.

Commercial sponges are taken from the bottom of the sea from tidal level to a depth of about 200 feet. In shallow waters they are picked with a two or three-pronged hook. Diving for sponges without any equipment is still practiced in Greece, along the Libyan coast, and in the Philippines. Sponges are the simplest animals known to man and have been in use from ancient times. Greek mothers pacified their babies with sponges soaked in honey.

Oliva Surges Toward Second Batting Title

When baseball starts handing out its postseason awards, it's just possible that Minnesota's Tony Oliva will wind up with his second silver bat and first purple heart.

Oliva, who has been playing all season long with a bone chip in the middle finger of his right hand, came back from a week's layoff Wednesday night and resumed defense of his American League batting title with two doubles and a single in the Twins' 5-2 victory over Detroit.

Wednesday's Stars
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PITCHING — Jim Maloney, Reds, completed 7-6, 2-0 doubleheader sweep by blanking Milwaukee on five hits as Cincinnati took over the National League lead by one percentage point over Los Angeles.

BATTING — Tony Oliva, Twins, returned to line-up after a week's absence and stroked two doubles and a single as Minnesota downed Detroit 5-2 and increased its American League lead to eight games.

Q—What great general is said to have slept with a copy of the epics of Homer under his head?

A—Alexander the Great.

Q—Did Noah have any daughters?

A—There is little doubt that Noah did have daughters, but their names are not mentioned.

The 24-year-old left-handed swinger still trails Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, who is hitting .323, and Brooks Robinson of Baltimore, swinging at a .319 clip, in the three-way struggle for the title and the silver bat that goes with it.

But Oliva's 3-for-4 performance quickly shot him back into contention with a .315 mark as he attempts to become the first batting champion to repeat since Boston's Ted Williams accomplished the feat in 1957 and 1958.

While Oliva resumed his chase for the batting title, the front-running Twins moved eight games ahead of second-place Chicago in the AL pennant race. The White Sox were rained out at Baltimore.

Elsewhere, Kansas City edged Cleveland 4-3, Washington outlasted Boston 8-7 and the Los Angeles Angels nipped the New York Yankees 7-6 in 12 innings.

Oliva, who is second in the league in runs scored with 96, third in doubles with 33 and fourth in runs batted in with 83, doubled home the first run and then scored on a passed ball in a three-run first inning outburst against the Tigers.

Home runs by Bill Bryan and Wayne Causey got the job done for the A's. The Indians took a 2-0 lead against John O'Donoghue in the second but Bryan hit a three-run shot in the A's half and Causey hit what turned out to be the clincher with the bases empty in the sixth inning off Luis Tiant.

The Senators pulled out front to stay, 8-6, in the seventh inning after the Red Sox had tied the score in their half with a three-run rally built on Jim Gosger's double, four walks, two wild pitches and a sacrifice fly. Ken McMullen's double and Willie Kirland's single broke the tie and Don Lock singled in the final run.

The Yankees contributed to their own downfall by committing seven errors and having two men picked off. The winning run in the 12th was set up when Pedro Ramos issued two-out walks to Bob Rodgers and Paul Schaal. Jose Cardenal then singled Rodgers home with the winning run for the Angels.

Five Will Report To Cardinals

ST. LOUIS AP -- The St. Louis Cardinals summoned five players from their Jacksonville, Fla., International League farm club yesterday with hopes of getting help for another pennant surge.

The Cardinals, 8 games out of first place in the National League, have won seven of their last nine games and have visions of the kind of late-season drive that brought them the pennant last year.

The Cardinals recalled outfielder Bobby Tolan, who has been leading the International League in runs, hits and triples and who is batting .298, and pitcher Barney Schultz, sent down a month ago.

The Redbirds bought the contracts of first baseman George Kernek, who is batting .286, and right handed pitchers Dennis Aust 8-4 with Jacksonville and Earl Francis 9-11, a former Pittsburgh Pirate hurler.

All five report Friday for the weekend series with the New York Mets.

The Cardinals also recalled Tulsa pitcher Larry Jaster, who may join the club after the Texas league playoffs.

Also recalled but not to join the club this year as Jacksonville pitchers Fritz Ackley and Dick Hughes and infielder-outfielder Ed Spezio and pitcher Mike Buise and outfielder Art Deras from Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

For 50 years, from 1820 to 1870, the Mississippi steamboat dominated the economy, agriculture, commerce and social customs of the middle area of the United States. Though they were colorful "palaces on paddle wheels" they were also known as "swimming volcanoes." From 1810 to 1850 alone an estimated 4,000 persons died in steamboat disasters on the Mississippi.

Vacation-Driving In Armchair Comfort

That smooth, comfortable car ride you take for granted is more of a marvel than you may think. Whether you ride on a freeway or a bumpy side road, you're subjected to thousands of vibrations and shocks which cause changes in your blood circulation, heart action, and respiration. These bring on fatigue and impair your ability to concentrate.

To protect you, car manufacturers have perfected the science of "comfort engineering." Mock-ups of cotton-cushioned car seats show them which styles best protect you against road shock, for example. Even the honk of your car horn is the result of repeated tests by sound specialists!

By following proper driving procedure and taking advantage of the latest refinements by automotive engineers, you'll find driving safer and more pleasant than ever before. And why not? You're driving in armchair comfort.

Road Work, Routine Arouse Township Ire

DEXTER--A controversy has broken out among Liberty township officials concerning road work and routine administration of township affairs. The three members of the board are Bill Phillips, trustee, Willis Middleton and Sam Davis. Middleton serves as the board president.

The disagreement between the officials seems to have three main sources. Charges have been made that (1) A "wider than usual" road has been built near the proposed shopping center north of Dexter, (2) that the township is "operating in the red" and (3) that the township board has purchased "antique" blacktopping equipment, over the objection of at least one board member.

The road in question that is receiving criticism from one board member is the three-quarter miles of road just west of the proposed shopping center. The road, according to Bill Phillips, is 100 feet wide -- much wider than other township roads that range from 40 to 60 foot widths. The cost of this road is also being discussed.

According to Middleton, the "stories that are out" on the cost of this road are out of proportion that labor on the road was approximately $1,000. Phillips on the other hand, said that clearing of the trees 'alone' would have cost this much. In close connection with this road is the fact that township equipment is being used to work on the roads in the shopping center. Claude Arnold, legal counsel for the township board, attended the Saturday morning session to offer advice on some of the matters in question. According to Mr. Arnold the township machinery paid for by the taxpayers for use on public roads, cannot be "hired out" for use on private enterprise.

Phillips further added that "not one cent" of money has come into the township office for any work that was done on the shopping center.

Henry Glenn, resident of the area near the proposed shopping center, was present to request that the road be continued on south and the newest, terminating at the Hickory House Motel.

This was agreed to in a previous contract, Glenn pointed out, and asked that the work be done before winter. Board members said that since the agreement had been made and a contract signed, work would begin immediately.

The second charge, that the township is operating in the red, came from Willis Middleton who said that "the board doesn't seem concerned with the fact that the way we are going, we will be 50 to 60 thousand dollars in the red at the end of this year."

Phillips, in discussing the monetary problems of the board said that when he took office on April 10, the township was operating without funds. He further added that the blacktopping of several roads was being paid for by the farmers and was not costing the township anything but the labor in laying the road.

In connection with this came the third point the men are disagreeing about -- purchase of black topping equipment.

According to Middleton who said "I was opposed to buying this equipment, I was in favor of spending the money on better bridges. Some of the farmers with wide machinery are having trouble crossing some of the township bridges. Some of our bridges are old and should have been replaced long ago."

Phillips, on the other hand, backed up his reason for purchase of the equipment with these claims: When a blacktop road is laid in the township, farmers are paying for it, so the township cost is labor. The city of Dexter was paid $10.25 per hour by the township for use of city blacktopping equipment, he said, which ran the repair bill on the four miles of Frant Road from the city limits to the Four Mile Road to approximately $850 last spring.

The cost of the blacktopping equipment recently purchased was $2200, according to Phillips. Middleton charged that the equipment is "antique" and emphasized again that he "did not want to buy the equipment".

Phillips, in discussing the equipment said that at the time of purchase it was being used by the State Highway Department. Middleton, who refused to sign the warrant at the time of purchase, is required to do so if two-thirds of the board is in agreement, it was pointed out.

In other discussion concerning, the blacktopping of township roads, Phillips said that the maintenance of the blacktop road would not be as much as would be the cost of grading a road. He said that gravel roads were supposed to be graded 26 times a year. Middleton maintains that the township will not have many miles of blacktop and that the money should have been used elsewhere.

At the present time there are eight miles of blacktop roads in the township and Phillips said he had money in the bank from the farmers for at least three more miles and that the demand for blacktop roads is increasing.

Election Will Fill Vacancy In Dunklin

KENNETT -- Gov. Warren E. Hearns says that he plans to call a special election to fill the post of Dunklin County state representative early in October.

The death of Rep. Charles B. James created the vacancy.

The chief executive said he had already made plans to call the special election in view of his intention of calling a special session of the general assembly after October 15 to reconsider apportionment of the House of Representatives.

"I think the citizens of Dunklin County should have representation during that special session," the governor said.

The chief executive said his office will prepare two special election writs. One will call for a special election in Dunklin county and the second will call for a special election in the sixteenth senatorial district to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Sen. Jack C. Jones of Carrollton.

Senator Jones, chairman of the Committee on Banks and Banking and Financial Institutions in the upper legislative chamber, was sworn in as a referee in bankruptcy and has resigned from his post in the general assembly.

Gov. Hearnes today said he would call a special session of the legislature between the middle of October and the first of November to consider the question of reapportionment of the House of Representatives. Voters turned down a proposed constitutional amendment Aug. 17, to divide the House into 168 districts. The chief executive has asked that another constitutional amendment be submitted, this one establishing a bipartisan commission to reapportion the lower legislative chamber.

Accept Bids On Ditch

KENNETT -- The Dunklin county court will accept bids on the construction of rehabilitation of the main ditch of drainage district No. 27 until 10 a.m. Sept. 15.

The ditch east of Caruth beween old highway 25, and the floodways, will be completely cleared and redug, according to Charles C. Redman, Jr., Kennett engineer and surveyor. Redman has been designated as the engineer in charge of the project.

Foreign Policing Jobs Plague LBJ

The wide and often turbulent field of U. S. - Soviet relations generally has come under the cloud of Viet Nam. Keeping affairs with Moscow on an even keel is Washington's main effort now. U. S. - Soviet negotiators succeeded last year in agreeing on a consular treaty. No breakthrough on disarmament is in sight.

Some progress with Communist bloc countries is in increased trade, travel and relaxing tensions have been reported from Johnson's policy of building bridges to Eastern Europe. This is a slow but continuing process.

Stagnation marks U. S. relations with Western Europe. Johnson has hewed to American policy favoring European unity and closer transatlantic ties. A revival of talk about a multilateral nuclear force is expected after West Germany's elections this fall.

But French President Charles de Gaulle stands firmly athwart moves to integrate the European countries, and France remains in the heart of Europe.

The record is mixed elsewhere. The overthrow of Ahmed Ben Bulla seems to have improved the U.S. view of Algiers. Relations with the United Arab Republic's Gamal Abdel Nasser are uneasy but not rock botton. With Indonesia's Sukarno they are going sharply downhill. U.S. diplomats have found no way to stop the India-Pakistan strife.

In Latin America the Johnson administration has stepped up Alliance for Progress aid. The program still gets complaints from Latin Americans of bureaucratic strictures by Washington, and criticisms from some U. S. officials that the Latin Americans are foot-dragging on reforms.

An election in Chile and a military coup in Brazil last year went in the right direction from Washington's standpoint. Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba, under continued U. S. quarantine, is reported losing some of its charm for hemisphere left-wingers.

A pretty girl was filling ou a questionaire as part of her application for the job of secretary to the chief engineer of an electronics company. After filling in the answers to the questions about her age, weight, color of hair, color of eyes, she came to one that stumped her.

Noticing her hesitation, her prospective boss asked, "Having trouble?"

"It's this question marked "Sex,' " the girl replied.

"What about it?" asked the engineer.

"Well," replied the girl, "I don't mind -- as long as your wife doesn't find out and make trouble for us."

DID NYLON STOCKINGS COST LESS WHEN MOM WAS A GIRL

Any woman knows better. A generation ago Nylon hose hadn't been invented. You couldn't buy them at any price.

The same is true of today's medicines. It isn't logical to say, "Prescriptions cost more than they used to." Most of today's drugs weren't available at any price 10 or 20 years ago. In fact, three quarters of the prescriptions written today, are for drugs that didn't exist ten years ago.

Today, Americans spend only one cent from every disposable dollar on drugs. This share is no more than we spent in 1939! Also, today's drugs work faster. They are more efficient. They do much to reduce your total cost of illness. That's why we say: "Today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history."

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: How does a woman recover when The Love of Her Life says, "Goodbye?"

I was married to a man who was more like a father to me than a husband. He was 20 years my senior and died after we were married only four years. Then I met an attractive, intellectually stimulating, physically exciting man. I fell in love for the very first time. We had a mad, ecstatic affair and I gave myself to him body and soul. We talked of marriage and I was sure we were matched in heaven. My dreams collapsed when he told me I'd better forget about him because we were not "right" for each other.

It has been several months now and I can't get him out of my mind. I compare my love with every man I meet and there IS no comparison. Please tell me how can a woman recover from a broken heart? -- EMPTY

Dear Empty: Tell yourself it is self-defeating to cling to bits and pieces of something that no longer exists.

The woman who grieves over The Man Who Got Away has a talent for screening out all the unpleasant aspects of the relationship. She remembers only the heavenly moments. As time passes and memory dims, the dead romance becomes more beautiful in death than it ever was in life.

The man can accommodate only one thought at a time. Substitute another thought -- something real and constructive for the fantasy.

Dear Ann Landers: I worked as a hotel maid for ten years and now I work in a motel. It's the same difference. The people who drive up in the most expensive cars and have the fanciest luggage are the biggest pigs. I hope you will print something about the way folks behave when they get outside their own homes. It's disgraceful.

Can you imagine grown people wiping their shoes on bedspreads and using face towels to polish their cars? Well, they do. They also spill ink on the walls, leave beer cans and whiskey bottles under the beds, and walk out with 10¢ water glasses.

They check out leaving the TV on and the dirty water in the bath tub. The worst pigs of all leave no tip for the maid who has to clean up the mess and make the room look perfect for the next guests.

If you print this, thousands of hard-working women will thank you. --FED UP WITH PEOPLE

Dear Fed: Here it is, and you're welcome. I stornglY recommend that neat folks who travel leave 50¢ a night for the maid. Pigs who travel should leave $1.

Dear Ann Landers: My married daughter lives in another city but I visit her quite often. She has teen-age children and a nice husband. Since her marriage she has developed a habit which I'm sure is keeping her back socially. She laughs too loud and too long.

It's plain to me that the girl has many acquaintances but no friends. I can see people cringe and actually withdraw from her before she gets a chance to show her fine qualities. She is exhausting, both to herself and to others.

I cannot discuss this with her because she would resent it. Is there any way I can help?--D. TROIT

Dear D.: The girl's loud laughter is not the problem. It is only the symptom of a deeper problem which she is trying to cover up. If her husband is an understanding man suggest that he urge her to get professional help. If not, then suggest it yourself and risk the resentment.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Accidents Leading Killer Of Americans Under 35

Americans live dangerously. This is the conclusion to be drawn from the following grim statistics recently released by the U. S. Public Health Service:

. Accidents killed 104,000 people in 1964, and were the leading cause of death among Americans aged one to 34.

. Some 53,000,000 Americans were hurt seriously enough last year to require medical attention or restrict their activity one day or more.

. Accidents in and around the home accounted for about 45% of all injuries. Put another way, some 23,000,000 Americans (out of the total of 53,000,000 injured) were hurt right on home ground.

PREVENTABLE 'DISEASE'

Although people seem to regard accidents as inevitable, they are not, according to Dr. Paul V. Joliet, Chief of the Division of Accident Prevention, U. S. Public Health Service, and several of his colleagues. These experts noted recently that "it is known that many, and probably most, of the accidents and their resulting deaths, injuries, and other consequences could be prevented."

The home is full of potential danger for the unwary, the unthinking, the uninformed. Cleaning fluid, furniture polish, ammonia, nail polish remover, moth balls, insecticides, paint, kerosene, and many other such ordinary and useful supplies, are poisonous. Unless they are kept out of the reach of toddlers they may be misused, with possibly tragic consequences.

For instance, in 1963, the 335 Poison Control Centers in 40 states handled nearly 47,000 individual cases of poisoning of children under five years of age. More than three-fourths of these children were between the ages of one and three.

Youngsters, curious about the world, eager to explore every nook and cranny, must be protected from themselves.

DANGERS NOTED

The medicine cabinet is a source of interest--and danger --for young explorers, as are matches, knives, stove, fireplace, window. Objects which can be placed well out of reach should be. Those that cannot should be locked up.

Just as important, though, is keeping an eye on junior. He shouldn't be left alone in the kitchen when food is cooking. One grab of a pot handle and he could be scalded. And the bath is fun, but no small child should be left alone in it for even a moment.

Where do your doors lead--to garage, driveway, storage areas? If so, they should be secured against the time Mr. Curious decides to go on an expedition alone. An those electrical outlets are great, especially for prying little fingers holding pointed metal instruments. Block them.

FALLING A HAZARD

Some 7,000,000 people a year are injured in falls in and about the home. . .between 11,000 and 12,000 of them fatally, according to the U. S. Public Health Service. Surely, this shocking figure should cause all of us to ask ourselves some basic questions.

Should the floors be so highly waxed? Does the rug need tacking where it curls up off the floor? Should the stair carpeting be removed or mended where there's a small hole to catch a heel? Would a mat in the bottom of the tub make it less slippery? Should a gate be placed in front of a stair to discourage baby's climbing up and falling down?

Are there holes in the backyard lawn? Have the croquet mallet, basketball, miscellaneous toys been picked up and out of home can be accident-proofed. been picked up and out of the way? Is there enough light over the porch steps?

These are but a few ways the home can be accident-proofed.

Congress Responds To Johnson Touch

EDITOR'S NOTE—Getting along with Congress has been developed to a fine art by President Johnson, and the legislative assembly line is producing at a remarkable clip. This second of four articles on LBJ in action focuses on his winning ways with lawmakers.

WASHINGTON (A) — Congress is responding like a giant computer to President Johnson's touch, rolling out in record-breaking volume legislation aimed at altering the course of American life.

By the time it adjourns for the year, probably in September, the administration - controlled Congress will have produced an astounding compilation of measures aimed at bolstering the economy and lifting the poor and oppressed to higher social and economic levels.

While this was going on, the President succeeded in smothering all but a recalcitrant few voices of opposition among the legislators to his course in Viet Nam. His judgment that there is no substantial dissent to the policies he is pursuing is generally accepted as accurate.

In his 21 months as President, Johnson has gone far beyond the New Deal of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the predecessor he reveres, to push the federal government into areas FDR never dared invade.

Now his task, as the President sees it, is to turn from the field of what Richard Goodwin, a presidential aide, called "material want" toward the improvement of "the quality of human life."

Translated, this means highway beautification, rebuilding of the nation's slum - scarred cities, elimination of water and air pollution, and expansion of recreation facilities.

Perhaps Congress will not be so docile in the future, but for practical purposes Johnson has got just about everything he asked for out of a body in which the Democrats outnumber the Republicans 2 to 1.

Major examples of his accomplishments include the Negro voting rights bill, health care for the elderly, aid to secondary educations, a $7-billion housing program, establishment of a housing and urban affairs department, a $4.6-billion exise tax cut, mental health grants, military pay increases and a proposed constitutional amendment on presidential disability.

Also Congress has given Johnson most of what he asked for foreign aid.

In the mill are measures for aid to higher education, abolition of the immigration quota system, repeal of the Taft-Hartley right to work provision, doubling of the antipoverty program, expansion of minimum wage coverage and a new program of farm price supports.

To accomplish these results, Johnson has done about everything but walk on water. He has pleaded, cajoled, flattered and persuaded with round-the-clock persistence probably never equalled in White House-Congress relations.

On occasion he has twisted a reluctant arm and has knocked a few heads together. He has rewarded his friends and, in most instances, has placated his critics.

Because he was a member of the inner circle in the House and Senate for many years, Johnson reads the lawmakers as though he were checking their diaries. He knows the ambitions, the strength and weaknesses of the men with whom he deals.

He not only talks the language of Congress, he enjoys it. It was his way of life for about 28 years and for him it was the good life.

Beyond that, Johnson knows that the craving for presidential recognition is universal. He gives of it liberally, passing out pens at bill signings, posing for photos with Senate and House members, calling up members on their birthdays inviting them to the White House and paying little informal calls on them that will be duly recorded in the press.

All of this might not have been enough, however, if Johnson had not suppressed his natural partisanship most of the time to build consensus support in Congress. With some eceptions he has been as kind to Republicans as to Democrats. Only last week, the President turned aside with soft words an assault by House Republicans on the administration's Viet Nam war policies.

All this has paid off. He might never have been able to get a voting rights bill passed, for example, if he had not given Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois a virtually free hand in hammering out its terms.

But a congressional election year lies ahead in 1966. Things may turn a bit more partisan then and there may be a few political weeds among the presidential roses.

State Preparing For 4,800 Students

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Preparations are being made at Southeast Missouri State College for the arrival of a record 4,800 students expected this fall.

Freshman -- possibly more than 2,000 of them -- have been asked to report Tuesday, for the opening of freshman orientation. The new students will eat supper together, then gather in the football stadium for a welcome from College officials. A free swim in the city swimming pool has been arranged to end the day's activities.

Freshman orientation, in small groups led by upperclass students, continues throughout registration week.

Registration for all classes gets underway next Wednesday, and continues through Thursday. About 3,300 students have already enrolled during pre-enrollment sessions held the past spring and summer.

Classes begin 8 a.m. Sept. 10.

Residence and classroom facilities -- both on and off the campus -- are expected to be at capacity. A new classroom building and two 12-story dormitories are currently under construction, but will not be available for use this year. A major remodeling and expansion of the library is being planned, but construction will not begin there until late next winter.

With housing space at a premium, College officials have instituted temporary measures to alleviate the situation until the completion of the new residence halls on the campus.

About 400 additional students will be housed in College facilities this year, by adding another student to rooms which previously housed only two.

About 80 more students will be housed in a local hotel, two floors of which have been secured by the College.

Classroom space is also expected to be in almost constant use, although it is not expected that there will be a shortage of space.

A number of activities are planned for registration week. Freshmen will produce a talent show in Academic Hall Auditorium on September 10, while informal dances have been scheduled for Thursday and Saturday nights.

On next Wednesday campus organizations will present displays at the football field in "Wheel's Night," an event designed to give new students information about extracurricular activities available to them.

On Sept. 11, campus social sororities will sponsor a carnival, set for 6 p.m. on the lawn at Academic Hall. Earlier in the day, fraternities and sororities will hold open house in their quarters at the College's Group Hosing complex.

A reception by Dr. Mark F. Scully, President of the College, will be held for new students Sept. 12, at 2 p.m. in Memorial Hall. A Bar-B-Q will be held on the Academic Hall lawn at 5 p.m., sponsored by the Student Union Board.

A FEW OBSERVATIONS ON THE MEANING OF THE EIGHTH AMENDMENT

Continued Mr. Justice White added:

The Court majority held that jail was too strong a "medicine" for narcotics users, and that even two or three months of confinement constituted "cruel and unusual punishment" within the meaning of the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments. The case rises some interesting questions: In its laudable desire to be humane, is the law reaching so far that it defeats the purpose of the law itself? Or, as the dissenters suggest, has sentimentality for criminals overcome common sense in interpreting our Constitution? As a necessary part of these questions, we may usefully inquire into the true interpretation of the prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment. It is to this point that this article is addressed.

2. The Early Background

While science generally languished in medieval England, one science proceeded to an advanced state, the techniques of inflicting pain on those convicted of crime. Such techniques became progressively more refined as man became more enlightened. So we are told:

In England there was a time when punishment was by torture, by loading him with weights to make him confess. Traitors were condemned to be drowned, disemboweled, or burned. It was the law "that the offender shall be drawn, or rather dragged, to the gallows; he shall be hanged and cut down alive; his entrails shall be removed and burned while he yet lives; his head shall be decapitated; his body divided into four parts." Browne, Bl. Com. 617. For certain other offenses the offender was punished by cutting off the hands or ears, or boiling in oil, or putting in the pillory. By the Roman law a parricide was punished by being sewed up in a leather sack with a live dog, a cock, a viper, and an ape, and cast into the sea.

We find an Act of Parliament as late as 22 Hen. VIII (1531) authorizing one Rouse to be thrown into boiling water and boiled to death for the offense of poisoning the family of the Bishop of Rochester. And in the famous judgment against Titus Oakes upon conviction of perjury, the House of Lords ordered, in pertinent part, that Oakes carry out certain penances every year for the rest of his life; and that he be committed close prisoner, as long as he shall live.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

Three thousand eight hundred eighteen students in grades one to twelve reported Monday for an all time opening day enrollment record. This was slightly over 100 more pupils than were counted on last year's opening day and this continues the upward trend which has been the pattern for the past fifteen years with one exception, as in 1954 we had a slight decrease in enrollment.

We anticipate that probably 25 to 50 more students will enroll before the end of September. Our accumulative enrollment will go above 4,000 this year and the figures given above include only resident students. There are 150 two day school students from neighboring communities enrolled in our vocational program. These students report here for half day classes in one of the many vocational subjects available and then attend regular classes at their home school the remainder of the day.

This year we will also have approximately 1,000 adults enrolled in adult education, primarily vocational in nature. Many of these people will be enrolled for a full six hour daily program, beginning at the close of the regular school day and extending until 10:30 p.m.

Not only has our college preparatory program been improved with courses specifically pointed toward that goal for students and with the addition of some new courses, but there are several vocational courses in the curriculum this year which were not available last year. These new courses include Graphic Arts, Refrigeration, Power Equipment Mechanics, and specialized Vocational Business Education.

We have over thirty units of vocational education available at the secondary level plus over sixty units of classes for the college bound student or for the non-vocational student who expects to close his formal education at the end of high school. This total of over ninety secondary units of class work is broad enough to meet the needs of almost any student, regardless of his future plans.

Our total faculty of 202 teachers includes 30 who did not teach here last year, although a few of them have been faculty members here in previous years. Of these, 31 are replacements for teachers who for some reason left the system at the close of the last school year and 18 fill newly created positions. Some of these additional positions are required because of the slow but steady increase in enrollment and the others are because of the vocational program, special education or special supervisors now required in our program. We are of the opinion that we have the most well-balanced and efficient faculties that we have had here thus far during my experience.

A great deal is being said throughout the nation about some of the Economic Opportunity Act programs, many times referred to as "anti-poverty" programs. There is considerable criticism, some of it justified perhaps, but most, in our opinion, is because of lack of information about what is actually taking place.

We have conducted two of the programs during the summer. One was the "Head Start" program for pre-school children. The majority of these youngsters were from extremely low income families, where it is assumed, with probable justification, that their background is not equal to that of children coming from homes where there is more money to buy the things that help to provide a good pre-school experience and background for children. Not all of the children were from the extreme low income group as a certain per cent of enrollees could be from any income level. These children, 60 of them in all, were taught by carefully selected teachers with particular training for instructing this age child. In addition, these teachers were enrolled in a course at Oklahoma State University specifically planned for Head Start teachers. Each teacher had one assistant or "teacher aid." These girls were college students, graduates of our high school, and enrolled last year in teacher training courses. The program, planned to provide experience to get these children ready for school, lasted eight weeks. It is the opinion of those who are familiar with and who worked with Head Start here that it is probably one of our most successful extra programs. We believe that these children will be greatly benefited by this experience and that they will be many weeks ahead of where they normally would have been, as they now enroll in first grade classes. We expect to keep careful records and to give certain tests to find out if this is true. We are convinced that the program is of sufficient value that if at all possible it will be continued.

We conducted another program, called the Neighborhood Youth Corps, that we are not quite so strongly sold on, although, we believe that it too was reasonably successful and probably should be continued. Because of the short time in which we had to plan Neighborhood Youth Corps, we were not able to do some of the things which we should have done. We will do better next time.

The idea of this program was to provide employment around the school or other public institutions, to give income to youth from very low income families in order that they might continue in school. The majority of these young people were willing to work for what they received while some others were not. Those who were not willing to put in an honest hours work for an hours pay will not be employed again as we do not feel that we are helping a boy or girl unless they learn that, with some unfortunate exceptions, an individual must produce or he won't hold a job. If the program is conducted here again the workers will be carefully screened and supervised and there will be quicker eliminations of those who are not willing to work.

The Board of Education increased teacher's salaries for this year by an average of at least $300 for each faculty member. All teachers did not get exactly the same increase as there was some change in the schedule to provide larger increases for those lowest on the scale. This increase will cost slightly in excess of $60,000 more to be paid from the teacher's fund this year. Teacher's salaries in Missouri, and especially southeast Missouri, are considerably below the national average even though the state of Missouri is twelfth among the states of the union in its financial ability to support education. The fact is that our legislators have not seen fit to allocate money which would give our children equal opportunities with those states willing to provide a more adequate educational program.

LBJ Uses Threats, Praise In Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's weaponry for sessions with past stalemated contract negotiators included veiled threats and warm praise, anecdotes and lectures, a man who has seen him in action said today.

"You don't forget that he's the President — and you don't forget that this is a very tough guy," reported this witness to sessions at which Johnson forestalled a national railway strike.

"He just hangs on and hangs on until he gets what he's after," the man added. He asked that his name not be used.

What Johnson is after now is a contract settlement to avert a strike in the nation's steel industry. A scant six hours after he set negotiators to work in the Executive Office Building, next door to the White House, Johnson announced Monday night an eight-day postponement of the threatened walkout, which had been scheduled at 12:01 a.m. today.

So far, at least, the White House has not reported any personal Johnson missions to the steel bargaining table. But the President was said to be keeping in close touch, through his aides, with the sessions at which Steelworkers President IM W. Abel and industry negotiator R. Conrad Cooper are negotiating under the eye of government mediators.

In the rail industry talks, Johnson's first target was a 15-day strike postponement. He announced it 90 minutes before the strike deadline of April 10, 1964. Thirteen days later, the complex, five-year-old dispute hinging on railroad work rules was settled.

A key session in that dispute came in the Cabinet room, with about 20 people on hand. Johnson talked to both sides, but the man who was there said union representatives balked at the postponement plea.

Johnson, the witness said, led union men out of the Cabinet room and into his private office. Later, when they filed out of his office, the President said they had agreed to the delay.

The source said Johnson confided later that he had talked to some of them in his bathroom. The President, this man said, called it "my outhouse meeting."

He also told of a complaint to Johnson from President Charles Luna of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Luna, he said, complained talk of compulsory arbitration on Capitol Hill was a noose around labor's neck. Johnson, pressing his plea for a strike postponement, was quoted as replying in roughly these terms:

"Now Charlie, you're a Texan and I'm a Texan and it's not like one of those damyankees asking you to do this."

At another point, the source recounted, one union man took issue with a Johnson remark. "I'm sorry, Mr. President, you're poorly informed," he was quoted as saying.

Johnson was said to have replied he regretted any mistake — and added "but I'm the only president you've got."

After the postponement was agreed upon, Johnson talked to both sides in the dispute. During those remarks, the source said, he twice told a story about a Texas friend who had a 2,000-acre ranch in Cuba but had it seized by the Communist regime there.

Railroad industry men took that as a veiled warning of a possible move for government seizure to avert a strike.

Once, after he had turned off the White House lights as an economy measure, Johnson summoned negotiators to his office at 10 p.m. to report to him on their progress. They told later of stumbling around in the dark on the way to that appointment.

Several times, the President lectured railroad negotiators on the industry's economy, with detailed earnings figures and stock market quotations. And, the source said, he told management men not to be constantly thinking of "the almighty dollar."

"I'm sure that Conrad Cooper has heard more about the almighty dollar in the past two days than he's ever likely to hear again," the source said.

Country Gets New Kind Of Presidency

WASHINGTON -- The country is getting a new kind of presidency. Television and changing times are part of the reason.

This week President Johnson looked like an on-the-ball chief executive when he went on television to announce he had obtained an eight-day postponement in the steel strike.

The idea wasn't quite new with him. President John F. Kennedy did pretty much the same kind of thing. Johnson just does more of it.

Kennedy used a televised news conference in 1962 to congratulate the steel union and industry for what he thought was an "obviously noninflationary" settlement.

Then when the industry, to his chagrin, raised prices, Kennedy used another televised news conference to denounce the steelmakers, who backtracked fast and dropped the price boost.

Kennedy and Johnson were doing two things:

Taking action and letting the nation see it close up pretty much as it happened. But, still using the steel industry as an example, they weren't the only presidents who took strong action.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, after getting a postponement but then letting a steel strike start in 1959, finally asked for an injunction to cool it off. In 1952 Harry S. Truman seized the steel mills to prevent a shutdown.

All four men had to take decisive steps in many fields which would have seemed extreme to presidents in the 19th century and to some of them in the first 30 years of this century.

But, with television so handy, presidents in the future, after the examples set by Johnson and Kennedy in using it in tense, national moments, will be expected to go on the air to tell the nation the latest.

Further, since they will be on screens from coast to coast, they won't dare look wishy-washy and must at least try to give the impression of decisive action even when they're hedging.

But since the depression of the 1930s, when the nation had to look to the White House for action, President Franklin D. Roosevelt set the pattern for the future by accepting true responsibility.

Since Roosevelt every president has found himself deeper and deeper in monumental problems that couldn't be ignored or let slide and the reasons for that are obvious.

Gradually, as the American society and the economy have become more interdependent among all their parts, there has been less room for delay or indecision.

The efforts of Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson to prevent or stop a steel strike, which would have meant far less 50 years ago, were all thought necessary to prevent critical economic damage to the whole nation.

And, as the United States moved out of isolationism in the 1940s, firm and fast foreign decisions became a necessity, too. These requirements will grow greater in the future, not less.

Thus, as the nation grows increasingly aware of the need for decisive men in the White House, the caliber of presidents, as has been increasingly seen since the 1930s, will be far different from most of those in the past.

The world needs more ugly Americans

. . . like this Peace Corps Volunteer, who aren't afraid to get their hands dirty. Who won't rid the world of hunger, disease or ignorance, but who will make a start.

It's not a glamorous job. It's hard work. And often disappointing, because volunteers will rarely see half the results they had hoped for.

But they happen.

In a Pakistan village, where a volunteer's flood-control project saved crops for the first time in 7 years.

In Tanganyika, where 525 miles of new road are opening up farmland, or in Nigeria, where a 10-year-old learns what the alphabet is. Maybe he can't read yet—but it's a start.

The people of 46 nations have asked for help. They want more Americans. And don't care what they look like. Can they help is what counts.

If you're willing to share the monotony of poverty and can take failure and bounce back, maybe you're the woman or man they want.

It's tough to get into the Peace Corps. You can try by writing to: The Peace Corps, Washington, D.C., 20525.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

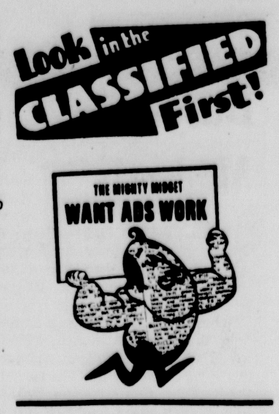

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of one and one-half inch hot-mix asphaltic pavement on six inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Norval Street to Reuben in accordance with plans and specifications in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 25th day of August, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

During one of our two-a-day football practices in college, everything seemed to be going wrong on this particular hot, humid afternoon. The tempers of both players and coaches were becoming quite short. A halfback, attempting a tricky maneuver, fumbled a hand-off and swore loudly.
"Take a lap around the field!" roared the head coach.
As the halfback ran about 20 yards with his head down, the coach again roared, "Better yet, run until you drop!"
The player immediately turned around and came running back. He completely broke up everyone by saying, "I'm sure glad you said that, coach. I never would have made a lap."

Dump Truck Lines Asked To Report

JEFFERSON CITY -- The Missouri Public Service Commission yesterday ordered 298 dump truck lines to file annual reports with the Commission within the next 30 days or face suspension of P.S.C. intrastate authority.

"According to law," said Judge William R. Clark, chairman of the Public Service Commission, "each intrastate common carrier must annually transmit to the commission a written report for the year ending the preceding Dec. 31. The reports are due on or before April.

"The Commission in July notified each of the truck companies included in today's order that their annual reports are overdue. Now, the Commission has given them until Oct. 1. to comply with the law or their authority to operate intrastate will be suspended."

Copies of the Public Service Commission order have been sent to the Missouri State Highway Patrol. The P. S. C. does not have the power of arrest, however, it works closely with the Patrol in matters of truck companies in the state," continued Judge Clark. "all are required to file annual reports. It is not fair that 31.5 per cent get by with negligence when the other 68.5 per cent are following the letter of the law. We intend to correct this situation."

Annual reports filed with the Commission are used to establish rate schedules.

Among truck companies included in the order are: T-13-[illegible], Clyde E. Unger, 239 South [illegible]ust, Dexter; T-13,596, [illegible]rrell Oil Company, Highway [illegible] East, Malone Avenue, Sikes[illegible]; T-13, 819, Hughie Lape, [illegible]ll City; T-13,837, Virgil Hendrix, Advance; T-14,205, Clayton Gaines, Route 2, Dexter; T-14,339, Wilford Urhahn, RFD, Benton; and T-21,237, Flaire Excavating and Grading Company, 1805 Kentucky Avenue, Sikeston.

—A SECOND TO LIVE—

Jessel Keeps Busy-Lives Modestly

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—George Jessel was wearing undershorts when he came to the door of his modest home in suburban Reseda.

"When I realized I was home only three days a month, I sold my other houses and moved out here," he explained as he paced through the small rooms. "All I needed was some place where I could change clothes and hang my photographs."

Wallpaper is unnecessary in the Jessel home. Wherever you look there are plaques, trophies, framed letters and photos. He has a picture and autograph of everyone from David Ben-Gurion to Jayne Mansfield. Included are all the recent U.S. presidents, Elizabeth Taylor and most of her husbands.

As he roamed through the gallery, Jessel seemed impatient to don his clothes and fly off to Miami Beach or Haifa to address a luncheon or plant a tree. He took a dip in the pool instead.

He returned in dry trunks and displayed a four-inch scar on his left thigh.

"Picked that up in Viet Nam just recently," he explained. "Snipers. We were coming off a plane and they opened up from across a rice paddy. Also picked up a bug of some kind. Can't shake it."

Jessel sat briefly in a contour chair to explain some of his other activities.

"I'm going to be Jackie Gleason's talent ambassador," he said. "I did two or three shows with him last year and they were so successful that he asked me back for 13 this season. But I'll have something more to do than get up and say, 'Two Jews got on a streetcar. . .

"I'll be going to 13 different American cities to find talent to appear on Gleason's show. I'll come on and say, 'This is so-and-so from Chicago, and I think she's got a great future as a singer.'

"Then I'll say, 'Two Jews got on a streetcar. . . .' "

Jessel also plans to tour with a new act composed of himself, Sophie Tucker and Ted Lewis.

"We did fantastic business in the East," he remarked. "It's amazing when you consider that Sophie is 82, Ted is 77, and I am 67; together we're older than the United States."

Another enterprise is a public relations firm he heads. Among his clients are Joseph E. Levine's Embassy Pictures, Israel, a distillery and a sausage concern.

"Yes, I'm busy now," he said, "but it was tough for me to get back. You know I quit performing for 11 years when I was producing movies. Regret it? No. My only regret was that I didn't quit after I had made 10 hits. I made eight flops after that, and I was dead.

"Yes, other performers have had their highs and lows. But they didn't go broke in between, as I did. Take Jolson. There was a time before 'The Jolson Story' when he couldn't get work. But he still ended up with six million dollars."

No Fox Hunts For Banker Out West

RENO, Nev. (AP) — As a Philadelphia banker, Stuart B. Webb used to spend his leisure hours fox hunting.

He's found no fox hunting since moving to Nevada to be president of the state's second largest bank.

Webb, at 40, already has filled a heart's desire by becoming top officer of the Nevada Bank of Commerce, with 13 branches throughout the state and assets of $95.6 million.

Webb was born, reared and educated in the East. He moved to Reno in April as administrative vice president and became president July 29.

Why did he come?

"I was looking for a situation that would lead to a top spot in the banking business. This one came to my attention, so I seized it. It's always been my heart's desire to be a bank president."

Webb did have some qualms about moving from the old, established eastern financial world to Nevada, the only state with casino gambling.

Casinos reported gross winnings of more than $290 million during 1964.

Casinos have an excellent cash flow, Webb says. "Their business is cash. Very little credit is involved in it. Ready short-term credit depends on the cash-flow analysis and this comes up quickly."

Nevada has a newer, lustier economy than the East, Webb says.

"As a result, I think the banks extend more credit to a particular customer than would fit the pattern in the East."

But growth has created a greater demand for capital than Nevada banks can meet, so a large amount of building financing still comes from the East, Webb says.

"The attractive thing here is the high interest rate pattern. It's 20 to 25 per cent higher than in the East. We get a standard rate of 7 per cent on loans compared to 5½ per cent in the East."

Webb and his wife have three children, Peter, 15; Nancy, 8, and Scott, 5.

Webb is a native of Washington, D.C., who was graduated from Lehigh University in 1950. He did graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania and Rutgers before joining Provident National Bank in Philadelphia.

He worked his way up and then became an executive of the National Bank of Pottstown, Pa.

CARNIVAL

By Dick Turner

"I agree! It doesn't make sense to pay for a phone and not use it! That's why I'm going to let you pay for it a while!"

STEVE CANYON by Milton Caniff

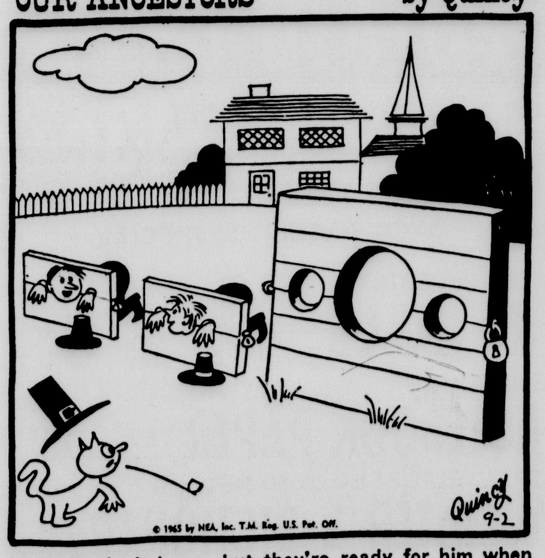

THE PHANTOM by Lee Falk & Sy Barry

OUR ANCESTORS

by Quincy

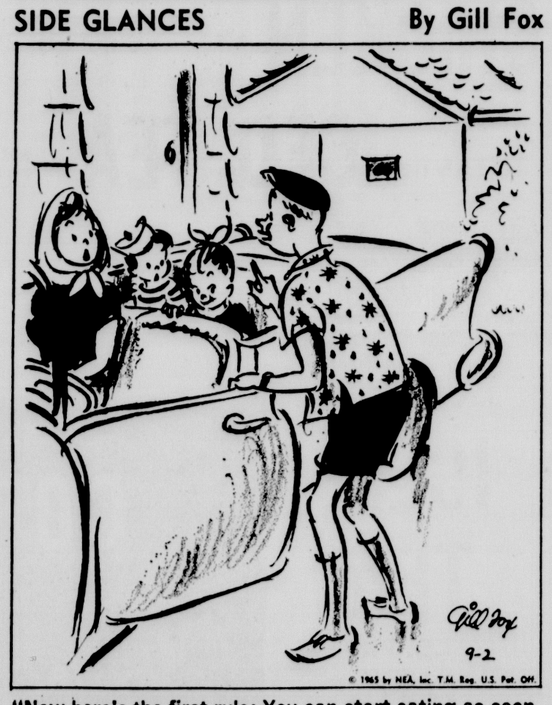

"I really don't know, but they're ready for him when they find him!"

SWANKY—Garbage collection goes almost glamorous as well as sanitary with new disposable polyethylene bag and can liners now in use in a number of cities. The watertight bags fit all sizes of cans and cut down on mess and noise while speeding collection efficiency.

SIDE GLANCES

By Gill Fox

"Now here's the first rule: You can start eating as soon as we've passed three windmills, a white horse and a man with red whiskers!"

ALLEY OOP by V. T. Hamlin
